* Latin is optional with third-year subjects, term for term.

Explanation of the Courses of Study.

ELEMENTARY COURSE.—This course consists of the first, second, and fourth years' work.

ENGLISH COURSE.—This course consists of all the work of the four years, Latin, third year, excepted; also special drill in method of grading and superintending schools.

LATIN COURSE.—This course is the same as the English, with Latin substituted for the designated subjects.

THE ACADEMIC COURSE consists of the first three years' work and physiology or mental science, as the student may elect. A CERTIFICATE OF GRADUATION is given on the completion of this course. It is not a certificate to teach.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject, with a standing of at least 80 per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course), in the Model Department, one hour per day for 40 weeks, or its equivalent. Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Students completing one full term of an advanced course in oratory, in drawing, or one year of postgraduate Latin, will be permitted to substitute the same for a corresponding time's work in the third year of the course of study, term for term.

 Pupils who lack a record in any first-term subject cannot be admitted to work in teaching.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University, or the State Agricultural College, will, without examination, be credited with such CLASS records as are 80 per cent. or above.

Graduates in the Arts Course, or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges, will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the School; the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School; the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course will include a review of the common branches.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the schools of Kansas. Those completing the first two years' work, together with one full term of some strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year State cer- tificate, good anywhere in the State. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the strictly professional branches are grouped in a single year.

Each subject in the first and second years is taught every term. The same is true of some of the subjects in the last year. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular Commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of Commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class for 20 weeks, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: Mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar and criticism, 10 weeks; reading and orthoëpy, 10 weeks; U. S. history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; drawing, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks; introductory Latin, 20 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department. The work in drawing and penmanship is the same as the work in the B class in the Normal Department, and pupils receiving grades of 80 per cent., or above, will not be required to take these subjects in the Normal Department. Pupils may take introductory Latin in place of drawing and penmanship, if they prefer. No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test falling below 80 per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requisite for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department.

List of Text-Books Used.

Algebra, Wentworth; Arithmetic, Wentworth & Hill; Astronomy, Young's Elements; Bookkeeping, Rochester Business University; Botany, Gray's Lessons Revised, and Field Book; Chemistry, Remsen; Constitution, Andrews; Drawing, Prang's American Text, Goodyear's History of Art; Elocution, Emerson; English Literature, Smith; Political Geography, Fisher's Essentials; Physical Geography, Eclectic; Geology, Le Conte's Compend; Geometry, Wentworth; Grammar, Reed & Kellogg; History, U. S., Johnston; History, General, Swinton; History of Education, Painter and Boone; Latin, Allen & Greenough's Grammar, Collar and Daniels' Beginner's Book, Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar; Methods, Wickersham; Music, Appleton's Series; Orthography, Reed's Word Lessons; Philosophy of Education, Rosenkranz; Penmanship, Stevenson; Physics, Gage; Physiology, Martin's Human Body (unabridged); Psychology, McCosh; Rhetoric, Elements of, Hill; School Economy, Wickersham; Trigonometry and Surveying, Wentworth; Zoölogy, Packard and Colton.

Students are advised to bring their old text-books with them, as they will be useful for reference. Books needed in class work are furnished to Normal students by the city dealers at wholesale prices.

Postgraduate Course.

Any graduate in the Elementary, Latin, or English Course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of 80 per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4,000 to 5,000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to a special diploma from the Board of Regents. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the school. The diploma will be issued only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to a diploma, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into 20 lessons requiring 10 hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examinations are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

General Information.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the school are best set forth in the act of the Legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School." "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition.
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a State.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view always proves the most skillful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificate are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination. They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificates are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination. They are also admitted to such subjects as they may need for passing the examination for first-grade certificate without becoming irregular.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of 80 per cent. on a fair examination in the common branches—arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, U. S. history, writing, and spelling, and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominate numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, State, and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes, their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed & Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our schoolbooks and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of $1 is charged for all such special examinations, except for those given on Monday and Tuesday of the eleventh week of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

Final Examinations.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation within 10 weeks of Commencement.

Fees.

The incidental fee is $5 per term of 20 weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month.

Tuition is free to all regular students; to others, $8, in addition to the incidental fee of $5, per term. (See "Mileage.")

During the last year no fees are charged those who subscribe to the following declaration:

"I hereby solemnly declare that my chief purpose in attending the State Normal School is to fit myself for teaching in the schools of Kansas; and I pledge myself to report to the President of the School, semiannually, where I am and what I am doing, for three years after graduating at said institution."

The fee for special course in kindergarten and primary methods is $5. Mileage is not paid to these special students.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.50 and $3 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3.25 to $3.50 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the State shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, capable of accommodating from two to four students, rent for from $2 to $4 per month. Furnished rooms rent for from $4 to $6 per month.

Secondhand Stores.

There are several good secondhand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell, at a loss about equal to rent of, furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of 20 Weeks.

Incidental fee.....	$5
Board and fuel.....	From $25 to 60
Books.....	" 5 " 8
Washing.....	" 6 " 10
Total.....	$36 $83

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59.

Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of 20 weeks, was one-half of above amounts.

Mileage.

All Normal students living outside of a radius of 100 miles from Emporia may have necessary railroad fare beyond that limit refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students paying incidental fee for the entire year.

Students in attendance and paying incidental fee for one full term of 20 weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded.

These rules apply only to those students living within the limits of the State of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions. About 200 are now receiving mileage each year.

Building, Apparatus, etc.

The building is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is about 200 feet long, and the entire building contains 50 rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. It is supplied with water from the city waterworks, with gas, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The laboratories for the Departments of the Natural Sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing each year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

The library and reading room occupy a handsome suite of three rooms on the second floor of the south end of the wing.

The Music Department occupies two fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses seven pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accommodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses completer facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The Regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make a liberal provision for their use by the pupil teachers.

A room in the basement is furnished with tables and tools, including turning lathe, scroll saw, etc., for work in manual training. The work in this room comprehends a variety of simple exercises in wood—slip work, joinery work, wood carving, etc. This addition to the appliances of the School is becoming a very popular feature, both as giving an acquaintance with the work in manual training which can be done in the public schools, and as furnishing opportunity for practice in the making of a variety of simple apparatus for illustration.

The gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow. A complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements has also been added.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the Library is located in a handsome suite of rooms in the new wing. It contains about 8,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents will prove a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imperative in the education of teachers than a good professional library. In selecting a school in which to secure an education, young men and women should not forget this feature of the State Normal School.

New Building.

The last Legislature appropriated the handsome sum of $50,000 for the erection of a new wing and a new assembly room. It is expected to be ready for occupancy early in 1894.

Course in Reading.

The following-named books are suggested for general reading during attendance at the School. It is thought that every pupil will find time each term to read at least two of the books named for his class. Some will be able to read them all.

For the A Class.—The Talisman, Scott; Forms of Water, Tyndall; History of the English People, Green; Longfellow's Poems; Gold Foil, J. G. Holland; Life of George Washington, Irving.

For the B Class.—Life of Thomas Jefferson, Parton; A Tale of Two Cities, Dickens; Conquest of Mexico, Prescott; Travels, Bayard Taylor; Orators and Oratory, Mathews; Lowell's Poems.

For the C Class.—Leonardo de Vinci; Ben-Hur, Gen. Lew. Wallace; Beacon Lights of History, Lord; Essays, Addison; The Sun, Dr. A. C. Young; Tennyson's Poems.

For the D Class.—Romola, George Eliot; History of France, Guizot, Poems, Scott; Essays, Ruskin; The Queens of England, Strickland; Homes without Hands, Wood.

For the E Class.—Last Days of Pompeii, Lytton; History of England,

Macaulay; Poems, Goethe; Essays, Carlyle; Life of Oliver Cromwell, Carlyle; Sketches of Creation, Winchell.

For the F Class.—Les Miserables, Victor Hugo; Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, Gibbon; Milton (English Men of Letters Series); Poems, Mrs. Browning; Essays, Emerson; Solar Physics, Proctor.

For the G Class.—Sans Souci, Mühlbach; Rise of the Dutch Republic, Motley; Poems, Milton; Essays, Macaulay; Life of Thomas Carlyle, Froude; The Atomic Theory, Wurtz.

For the H Class.—The Marble Faun, Hawthorne; History of the United States, Bancroft; Poetry, Shakespeare; Essays, Bacon; Frederick the Great, Carlyle; Conservation of Energy, Balfour Stewart.

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the class room is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres, and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings, in their large and tastefully-furnished halls. The Alpha Society and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model-School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of five entertainments, reserved seats included, are $1 each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by the Schubert Quartette, William Hawley Smith, Frank Bristol, C. E. Bolton, and George Kennan.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, oration, and dramatic art.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Intercollegiate Association of Kansas.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the February contest in debate.

The prize in last June debate was won by the Lyceum Society, represented by C. S. Fowler and A. B. Carney; in the last February debate, by the Literati Society, represented by F. P. Jolly and J. W. Wilson.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Alice R. Johnston.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Martha J. Worcester.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admission and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high-school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 53.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes, without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited. The city is liberally supplied with churches, whose doors are ever wide open to all.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the State.

The street cars run from both of the city railroad depots to the Normal grounds; fare, 5 cents.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Quarterly, which has a large circulation and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables it to present certain phases of its work to the public. The subscription price is 25 cents per year.

Summer Classes.

The summer classes formed for the past two years, immediately after Commencement, have become very popular. The enrollment last summer reached a total of 166 students. Beginning June 9, 1893, the following-named teachers will conduct classes in their specialties: Professors Bailey, Kelly, Hill, Bidez, Whitney, and Gridley. Address any one of them for terms and particulars.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behindhand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves and the teachers to the inconvenience of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

 Read this Catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1,231, and in the Model School 146. A limited number only is admitted to the Model School.

Nearly 500 students held teachers' certificates on entering; 83 held first-grade and 242 second-grade certificates; 122 were graduates of high schools; 15 of academies or colleges.

The class of 1893, 118 members, averaged over  $23\frac{1}{2}$  years of age and  $2\frac{1}{2}$  years' teaching experience.

The average age in the Normal Department was 21 years.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the school is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 90 in all, were represented in the Normal Department during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children.

Outline of Instruction.

THE following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Descriptive Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc. Origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is given also. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Choral Class.—This class meets once a week. Students who are already readers of music can enter this class without charge, and will find there an excellent opportunity for chorus training.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Three systems are taught,—tonic sol-fa (the first four steps), staff notation, time-name (Tuft's and Holt's); besides enough theory to enter upon the study of harmony (theory of intervals, scales, chords, tonalities, and form); a brief history of music; and the methods of teaching each of the above systems.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year, each student prepares and presents, independent of any suggestion from anyone, some standard English or American oration. During the last 10 weeks, the class study a play of Shakespeare's, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first 10 weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all of this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body and voice all cultured, and each responsive to the others.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given some work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the 20 weeks, eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte movements. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be attained only by development of mind and soul. The physical exercises are a necessity in this vocal work. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, pupils discover the physiological and æsthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation; our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academical algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations, and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Twenty weeks. To the oblique and spherical triangle; the use of drawing instruments—the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; ability to teach the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for 10 weeks in actual field work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. The Eclectic text is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; the preparation of an herbarium of 50 plants; one hour and a half of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of over 200 species of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, 50 typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blow-pipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating the cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, decomposing new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The pupils in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the pupils devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, comets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Natural Philosophy.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Penmanship and Bookkeeping.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible and rapid writer, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. More than mere theoretical knowledge of the subject is required, and practice is made to conform to theory, regardless of the length of time it may take. The minimum time required for home practice is an average of 90 minutes per day. The home practice is upon a graded series of script plates, showing the relations of letters and their combinations; also, upon business forms, letter writing, etc. This work is submitted to the teacher daily during the last five weeks of the term, for his criticism. The student's grade is determined by the plates and forms which he may have had approved. While the forms of the letters are a modification of the Spencerian, the method depends upon movement as the means, and considers legible, rapid writing the end desired.

Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. Double-entry bookkeeping, in all its various forms and modifications, is taught by the keeping of regular sets of books. The theory and relation of single and double entry are thoroughly taught, as well as the changing of a set of books from one system to another. The student becomes familiar, by use, with business forms of all kinds, and the elements of commercial law. The Williams & Rogers Rochester Business University text-book on book-keeping is used by the student as a guide in definitions and forms. The work includes also the principles of commercial law, and special sets of books involving partnership formations and settlements, shipments and consignments, special-column journal, etc., which are prepared by the teacher of the department.

Drawing.

Three terms of 10 weeks each.

First Term.—Geometric problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, history of art, free-hand drawing from models and casts.

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the 30 weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in this direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it. A definite course is arranged for the 20 weeks, requiring the same time and preparation as for all other regular studies, and it can be substituted for any subject in the third year of the regular course.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more advanced work than can be taken up in the regular course of study is met, and several graduates of the School have availed themselves of the privilege during the present year.

Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Johnston. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basic principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work—a short, terse essay—must then be presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is twofold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, mediaeval, and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrew's Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the State governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, coöperative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as, Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of æsthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secure the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's-eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special view point of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics, it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—Eighty weeks required, 40 weeks additional offered, in four-years' Latin course. First year, first 20 weeks: Fifty lessons Collar & Daniell's Beginner's Book. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercises in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Cæsar, first book, Helvetian war. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Cæsar's Gallic war. First book completed, second, third and fourth books read. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the fourth against Cataline, and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid of Virgil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology.—Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented in McCosh's two volumes—the Cognitive Powers and the Motive Powers—is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on the same subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education—Ten weeks. With the 20 weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkranz is used as a text.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools, districts, sites, buildings and their equipments, grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing coöperation of pupils, qualifications and duties of teachers, school boards and their duties, etc.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do 45 minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the every-day work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

Methods.—Twenty weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during 10 weeks, and the teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement the work of the book with from two to four lectures each on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge supplements the text with the discussion of the latest and most approved methods and theories in regard to the subjects discussed.

Kindergarten and Primary Work.—Ten weeks. Froebel's gifts; two lectures, with illustrations. Sewing, including drawing of original designs; weaving, including instructions on colors and harmony of colors, patterns from dictation, copying, and originals. Paper folding; forms of life and forms of beauty. Paper cutting; Froebel's system; designs formed from seventh-gift tablets; use of knives; making objects; in combining with seventh-gift tablets. Clay molding, preparing of clay; objects, based on ball, cylinder, and cube. Use of sticks in drawing. Use of rings in drawing. Study of Froebel's life and his work. Methods of teaching numbers in the first grade. Methods of teaching reading. Methods of teaching spelling and writing. Object teaching. Observation in the kindergarten.

Outlines and Reviews.—Twenty weeks. The copying of notebook work, giving methods in certain subjects which the books and lectures elsewhere in the course do not give, and the discussion of best methods of presenting subjects in brief outline, give name to this subject. During the first half of the term, the chief work is a study of city school systems. The latter part of the term makes a thorough study of Kansas school law. The teacher gives the history of various phases of school legislation, and decisions on sundry doubtful points that occur to the experienced teacher.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Robert's manual as authority. The orations take advanced special drill for 20 weeks in the art of expression, and the same time to criticism and to a review of the Iliad. In all this work a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about 15 minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, bean bags and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music. The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils having requisite records in the physical training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium. The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticise the work of pupil teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application. The value of the kindergarten work can hardly be overestimated. Its methods are fundamental, and should be understood by all teachers.

SPECIAL COURSES.

Vocal and Instrumental Music.

Piano.—The curriculum in the Music Department comprises four grades, preceded by a preparatory grade. The first grade after the preparatory starts with Köhler's Op. 151, or with Löschhorn's Op. 65; the second with Cramer-Bülow; the third with Clementi-Tausig; the fourth with Seeling; to end with Alkan and Saint-Saëns. Technical work is carried on throughout the entire course. The works of Bach are not brought in before the third grade. Theory (including harmony, counterpoint, etc.) is taught each pupil without extra charge. Pieces taught are selected from the best classic and romantic writings. No unworthy music taught.

Courses in Other Instruments.

There is a complete curriculum for the violin, the guitar, the mandolin, and the banjo. Other instruments taught if desired.

Special Course in Theory.

This can be taken by itself and be carried through the theoretical part of the C and D classes, and as far beyond as desired.

Terms for Special Instruction.

Piano, violin, guitar, banjo, with Director (per term of 18 lessons).....	$12 00
Piano, violin, guitar, mandolin, with Assistant.....	10 00
Vocal culture.....	15 00

The above terms are to Normal students only. All others are charged $1 a lesson. The lessons are given semiweekly; exception is made for advanced pupils, who may take weekly lessons. The same may be extended to pupils coming each time from a distance. Sheet music and music books are sold to pupils at low rates. Studies and exercises can also often be rented at a very small figure.

French and German.

The study of modern languages is not in the regular course, but students may join classes in French and German by paying special tuition. A thorough linguist and successful teacher has charge of these classes.

Shorthand and Typewriting.

In response to a very general demand, the Board has provided for special instruction in shorthand and typewriting. A thoroughly competent and experienced stenographer and typewriter, Mr. Earl Shepherd, has been secured for this work. The course will include phonetics, phonography or phonetic shorthand, typewriting and typewriter forms, together with lectures on office methods and the adaptation of phonography to the teacher's work.

The aim will be to fit young men and women for efficient work as amanuenses and reporters, and, also, to give such a knowledge of the art and science of phonography, and such skill in the manipulation of the typewriter, as will be of great value to teachers in every department of school work.

The Benn Pitman system of phonography and the all-finger method of typewriting will be taught. The texts used will be as follows: The Manual of Phonography, First and Second Phonographic Readers, the Reporter's Companion, the Reporter's First Reader, and Elias Longley's Typewriter Instruction Books. A complete line of reference books will also be placed at the disposal of students.

The fees will be as reasonable as those charged by any good school of shorthand and typewriting. For further information, address the President or Mr. Shepherd.

Alumni Record.

The data given are the latest which we, after very great effort, are able to obtain. With few exceptions, we have been able to verify them to date. The friends would confer a favor by reporting to this office any inaccuracies which may be found, and by promptly notifying us, as changes in their own occupation or location may be made. It is our purpose to spare no pains to make the record of each year as nearly complete as possible, and we ask for the hearty coöperation of all.

*Latin is optional with third-year subjects, term for term.

Explanation of the Courses of Study.

ELEMENTARY COURSE.—This course consists of the first, second, and fourth years' work.

ENGLISH COURSE.—This course consists of all the work of the four years, Latin third year excepted, and one full-term optional subject; also special drill in method of grading and superintending schools.

LATIN COURSE.—This course is the same as the English, with Latin substituted for the designated subjects.

THE ACADEMIC COURSE consists of the first three years' work and physiology or mental science, as the student may elect. A CERTIFICATE OF GRADUATION is given on the completion of this course. It is not a certificate to teach.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject with a standing of at least 80 per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course), in the Model Department, one hour per day for 40 weeks, or its equivalent. Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Students completing one full term of an advanced course in oratory, in drawing, or one year of postgraduate Latin, will be permitted to substitute the same for a corresponding time's work in the third year of the course of study, term for term.

 Pupils who lack a record in any first-term subject cannot be admitted to work in teaching.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University, or the State Agricultural College, will, without examination, be credited with such class records as are 80 per cent. or above.

Graduates in the Arts Course, or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges, will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the School; the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School; the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course will include a review of the common branches.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the schools of Kansas. Those completing the first two years' work, together with one full term of some strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year state cer- tificate, good in any county in the state. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the strictly professional branches are grouped in a single year.

Each subject in the first and second years is taught every term. The same is true of some of the subjects in the last year. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class for 20 weeks, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: Mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar and criticism, 10 weeks; reading and orthoëpy, 10 weeks; United States history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; drawing, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks; introductory Latin, 20 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department. The work in drawing and penmanship is the same as the work in the B class in the Normal Department, and pupils receiving grades of 80 per cent., or above, will not be required to take these subjects in the Normal Department. Pupils may take introductory Latin in place of drawing and penmanship, if they prefer. No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test falling below 80 per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requisite for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department.

Postgraduate Course.

Any graduate in the Elementary, Latin or English course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of 80 per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4,000 to 5,000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to a special diploma from the Board of Regents. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the School. The diploma will be issued only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to a diploma, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into 20 lessons, requiring 10 hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examinations are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

General Information.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the School are best set forth in the act of the legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School." "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition.
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self-government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a state.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view always proves the most skillful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificate are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination. They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificate are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination. They are also admitted to such subjects as they may need for passing the examination for first-grade certificate without becoming irregular.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

CITIES.

Abilene.	Fort Scott.	Leon.	Rossville.

El Dorado.	Kingman.	Parsons.	Williamsburg.
Emporia.	Lawrence.	Phillipsburg.	Winfield.
Eureka.	Leavenworth.	Pleasanton.

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of 80 per cent. on a fair examination in the common branches—arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, United States history, writing, and spelling—and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominate numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, state, and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes, their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed & Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our schoolbooks and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of $1 is charged for all such special examinations, except those given on Monday and Tuesday of the eleventh week of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

Final Examinations.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation within 10 weeks of Commencement.

Fees.

The incidental fee is $5 per term of 20 weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month.

Tuition is free to all regular students; to others, $8, in addition to the incidental fee of $5, per term. (See "Mileage.")

During the last year no fees are charged those who subscribe to the following declaration:

"I hereby solemnly declare that my chief purpose in attending the State Normal School is to fit myself for teaching in the schools of Kansas; and I pledge myself to report to the President of the School, semiannually, where I am and what I am doing, for three years after graduating at said institution."

The fee for special course in kindergarten and primary methods is $5. Mileage is not paid to these special students.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.35 and $2.75 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3 to $3.25 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the state shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, capable of accommodating from two to four students, rent for from $2 to $4 per month. Furnished rooms rent for from $4 to $6 per month.

Secondhand Stores.

There are several good secondhand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell at a loss about equal to rent of furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of 20 Weeks.

Incidental fee.....	$5
Board and fuel.....	From $25 to $60
Books .....	" 5 " 8
Washing .....	" 6 " 10
Total .....	From $36 to $83

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average yearly expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59.

Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of 20 weeks, was one-half of above amounts.

Mileage.

All Normal students living outside of a radius of 100 miles from Emporia may have necessary railroad fare beyond that limit refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students paying incidental fee for the entire year.

Students in attendance and paying incidental fee for one full term of 20 weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded.

These rules apply only to those students living within the limits of the state of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions. About 200 are now receiving mileage each year.

Building, Apparatus, etc.

The building, recently enlarged, is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is nearly 300 feet long, and the entire building contains 75 rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. The new assembly room is said to be the finest auditorium in the state. It is supplied with water from the city waterworks, with gas, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The laboratories for the Departments of the Natural Sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing each year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

The library and reading room occupy a handsome suite of four rooms on the second floor.

The Music Department occupies four fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses seven pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accommodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses completer facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The Regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make a liberal provision for their use by the pupil teachers.

A room in the basement is furnished with tables and tools, including turning lathe, scroll saw, etc., for work in manual training. The work in this room comprehends a variety of simple exercises in wood—slip work, joinery work, wood carving, etc. This addition to the appliances of the School is becoming a very popular feature, both as giving an acquaintance with the work in manual training which can be done in the public schools, and as furnishing opportunity for practice in the making of a variety of simple apparatus for illustration.

The new gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow; also, a complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the library is located in a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor. It contains about 9,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents, now in place, will prove a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imperative in the education of teachers than a good professional library. In selecting a school in which to secure an education, young men and women should not forget this feature of the State Normal School.

Course in Reading.

The following-named books are suggested for general reading during attendance at the School. It is thought that every pupil will find time each term to read at least two of the books named for his class. Some will be able to read them all.

For the A Class.—The Talisman, Scott; Forms of Water, Tyndall; History of the English People, Green; Longfellow's Poems; Gold Foil, J. G. Holland; Life of George Washington, Irving.

For the B Class.—Life of Thomas Jefferson, Parton; A Tale of Two Cities, Dickens; Conquest of Mexico, Prescott; Travels, Bayard Taylor; Orators and Oratory, Mathews; Lowell's Poems.

For the C Class.—Leonardo de Vinci; Ben-Hur, Gen. Lew. Wallace; Beacon Lights of History, Lord; Essays, Addison; The Sun, Dr. A. C. Young; Tennyson's Poems.

For the D Class.—Romola, George Eliot; History of France, Guizot; Poems, Scott; Essays, Ruskin; The Queens of England, Strickland; Homes without Hands, Wood.

For the E Class.—Last Days of Pompeii, Lytton; History of England,

Macaulay; Poems, Goethe; Essays, Carlyle; Life of Oliver Cromwell, Carlyle; Sketches of Creation, Winchell.

For the F Class.—Les Miserables, Victor Hugo; Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, Gibbon; Milton (English Men of Letters Series); Poems, Mrs. Browning; Essays, Emerson; Solar Physics, Proctor.

For the G Class.—Sans Souci, Mühlbach; Rise of the Dutch Republic, Motley; Poems, Milton; Essays, Macaulay; Life of Thomas Carlyle, Froude; The Atomic Theory, Wurtz.

For the H Class.—The Marble Faun, Hawthorne; History of the United States, Bancroft; Poetry, Shakespeare; Essays, Bacon; Frederick the Great, Carlyle; Conservation of Energy, Balfour Stewart.

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the class room is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings, in their large and tastefully-furnished halls. The Alpha Society and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model-School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of five entertainments, reserved seats included, are $1 each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by W. H. Bolton, Shipp Bros.' Bell Ringers, Wilzcek Concert Company, A. A. Willets, John Temple Graves.

The members of the Faculty delivered formal lectures on the following topics: President Taylor, "A Plea for the Graces;" Professor Wilkinsen, "The Value of Method;" Professor Dinsmore, "The Study of Chemistry;" Professor Bailey, "The Art of Debating;" Professor Hill, "The Discovery of Europe;" Professor Kelly, "Biology;" Professor Jones, "Alfred Tennyson;" Professor Marsland, "The Spiritual Ebb and Flow of American Oratory;" Professor Gridley, "Art—the Birthright of Humanity;" Professor Stevenson, "The Origin and Development of Writing."

One of the pleasant features of the School is the frequent appearance on the platform, at the morning hour, of distinguished men and women in the various walks of life. Their informal talks are often most eloquent and helpful.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered by the Regents for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, oration, and dramatic art.

Major Calvin Hood, of this city, kindly offers a cash prize of $30 for the contestant ranking highest in the February debate, and $10 for the second in rank. E. O. Leatherwood and H. L. McClurkin were the respective winners of these prizes in the last debate.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Intercollegiate Association of Kansas.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the February contest in debate.

The prize in last June debate was won by the Philomathian Society, represented by H. B. Gridley and Forrest Woodside; in the last February debate, by the Lyceum Society, represented by W. M. Edgerton and H. L. McClurkin.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Carrie A. Hall.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Wilhelmina Holtzsueh.

The prize in last contest in oration was won by Charles Courtney.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admissions and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 51.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited. The city is liberally supplied with churches, whose doors are ever wide open to all.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the state.

The street cars run from both of the city railroad depots to the Normal grounds; fare, 5 cents.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Quarterly, which has a large circulation, and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables it to present certain phases of its work to the public. The subscription price is 25 cents per year.

An athletic association, composed of members of the Faculty and students, provides outdoor exercises and amusements in abundance, including baseball, lawn tennis, croquet, bicycling, military drill, pentathlon exercises, etc. The field-day exercises, at which all these sections come together, is one of the great features of the year. The military company is supplied with arms by the state, and the weekly drills are very popular.

Summer Classes.

The summer classes formed for the past two years, immediately after commencement, have become very popular. The enrollment last summer reached a total of 138 students. Beginning June 15, 1894, the following-named teachers will conduct classes in their specialties: President Taylor and Professors Bailey, Dinsmore, Kelly, Hill, Marsland, Stevenson, Gridley, Johnson, Boyle, and Montgomery. Address any one of them for terms and particulars.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behindhand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves and the teachers to the inconvenience of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

 Read this catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1,222, and in the Model School 113. A limited number only is admitted to the Model School.

Over 500 students held teachers' certificates on entering; 120 held first-grade and 238 second-grade certificates; nearly 100 were graduates of high schools, academies, or colleges.

The class of 1894, 100 members, averages over 24 years of age and 2½ years' teaching experience.

The average age in the Normal Department was 21 years.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the School is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 91 in all, were represented in the Normal Department during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children.

Outline of Instruction.

THE following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for a second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Descriptive Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc. Origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is given also. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Choral Class.—This class meets once a week. Students who are already readers of music can enter this class without charge, and will find there an excellent opportunity for chorus training.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Staff notation and principles of tonic sol-fa, time names, intervals, triads, and chords of the dominant and other sevenths, in both major and minor modes, are taught. Short talks and lectures in history of notation and methods of teaching are given.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year each student prepares and presents, independent of any suggestion from anyone, some standard English or American oration. During the last 10 weeks, the class study a play of Shakespeare's, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first 10 weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all of this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body and voice all cultured, and each responsive to the others.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given some work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the 20 weeks, eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural, artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte movements. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be attained only by development of mind and soul. The physical exercises are a necessity in this vocal work. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, pupils discover the physiological and æsthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation; our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academical algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations, and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Twenty weeks. To the oblique spherical triangle; the use of drawing instruments—the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; ability to teach the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for 10 weeks in actual field work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. The Eclectic text is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany.—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; the preparation of an herbarium of 50 plants; one hour and a half of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one-half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of over 200 species of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, 50 typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blow-pipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating the cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, decomposing new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The pupils in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the pupils devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, comets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Natural Philosophy.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Penmanship and Bookkeeping.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible and rapid writer, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. More than mere theoretical knowledge of the subject is required, and practice is made to conform to theory, regardless of the length of time it may take. The minimum time required for home practice is an average of 90 minutes per day. The home practice is upon a graded series of script plates, showing the relations of letters and their combinations; also, upon business forms, letter writing, etc. This work is submitted to the teacher daily during the last five weeks of the term, for his criticism. The student's grade is determined by the plates and forms which he may have had approved. While the forms of the letters are a modification of the Spencerian, the method depends upon movement as the means, and considers legible, rapid writing the end desired.

Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. Double-entry bookkeeping, in all its various forms and modifications, is taught by the keeping of regular sets of books. The theory and relation of single and double entry are thoroughly taught, as well as the changing of a set of books from one system to another. The student becomes familiar, by use, with business forms of all kinds, and the elements of commercial law. The "Complete Practical Bookkeeping" is the text-book used by the student as a guide in definitions and forms. The work includes also the principles of commercial law, and special sets of books involving partnership formations and settlements, shipments and consignments, special-column journal, etc., which are prepared by the teacher of the department. Ten weeks' additional advanced work is offered in a special class each term to those desiring it.

Drawing.

Three terms of 10 weeks each.

First Term.—Geometry problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, history of art, free-hand drawing from models and casts.

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the 30 weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in this direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it. A definite course is arranged for the 20 weeks, requiring the same time and preparation as for all other regular studies, and it can be substituted for any subject in the third year of the regular course.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more advanced work than can be taken up in the regular course of study is met, and several graduates of the School have availed themselves of the privilege during the present year.

Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Johnston. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basic principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work — a short, terse essay — must then be presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is twofold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, mediæval and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrews' Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the state governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, coöperative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as, Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of æsthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secure the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's-eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special view point of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics, it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—Eighty weeks required, 40 weeks additional offered, in four-years' Latin course. First year, first 20 weeks: Fifty lessons Collier & Daniell's Beginner's Book. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercises in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Cæsar, first book, Helvetian war. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Cæsar's Gallic war. First book completed, second, third and fourth books read. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the four against Catiline, and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid of Vergil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Sixth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid, fifth and sixth books. General study of Latin literature. Grammatical review.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology —Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented by Dewey is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on the same subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education —Ten weeks. With the 20 weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkrantz is used as a text.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools, districts, sites, buildings, and their equipments, grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing coöperation of pupils, qualifications and duties of teachers, school boards and their duties, etc.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do 45 minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the every day work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

Methods.—Twenty weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during 10 weeks, and the teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement the work of the book with from two to four lectures each on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge supplements the text with the discussion of the latest and most approved methods and theories in regard to the subjects discussed.

Kindergarten and Primary Work.—Ten weeks. Froebel's gifts; two lectures, with illustrations. Sewing, including drawing of original designs; weaving, including instructions on colors and harmony of colors, patterns from dictation, copying, and originals. Paper folding; forms of life and forms of beauty. Paper cutting; Froebel's system; designs formed from seventh-gift tablets; use of knives; making objects; in combining with seventh-gift tablets. Clay molding, preparing of clay; objects, based on ball, cylinder, and cube. Use of sticks in drawing. Use of rings in drawing. Study of Froebel's life and his work. Methods of teaching numbers in the first grade. Methods of teaching reading. Methods of teaching spelling and writing. Object teaching. Observation in the kindergarten.

School Law.—The subject is prefaced by a thorough discussion of the endowment by the national government of all the schools in the states and territories; also, miscellaneous appropriations to the permanent school fund from colonial times to the present. The statute laws of the state relating to public education are studied under four heads —organization, management, classification, and support. A comparison of the laws of Kansas with those of other states is made, making special reference to the above points and the relative degree of efficiency. The technicalities of law involved in the disposition of school lands, and the opinion on doubtful points of law given by the state superintendents and attorneys general are fully discussed. The laws of the more important European countries relating to the common schools are examined and compared with those of our own.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Robert's manual as authority. The orations take advanced special drill for 20 weeks in the art of expression, and the same time to criticism and to a review of the Iliad. In all this work a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about 15 minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, bean bags and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music. The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils having requisite records in the physical training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium. The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticise the work of pupil teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application. The value of the kindergarten work can hardly be overestimated. Its methods are fundamental, and should be understood by all teachers.

SPECIAL COURSES.

Vocal and Instrumental Music.

Piano.—The curriculum comprises six grades. The first-grade studies are selected from the works of Mathews, Gurlitt, Kohler, or Loeschhorn. The second from Lemoine, Duvernoy, Burgmuller, or Loeschhorn. The third part from Heller, Hassert, Biehl, Behrens, and Bach. The fourth from Cramer, Czerny, and Bach. The fifth from Moscheles, Czerny, and Clementi. The sixth from Henselt and Chopin. Daily technic accompanies each grade; also pieces and sonatas from the best modern and classic writers.

Vocal Culture.—Plain, simple exercises, such as tend to place, strengthen and produce flexibility of voice, are given at first. Work in first grade consists principally of dictation exercises adapted to the needs of the pupil. The second-grade studies are selected from Bonaldi, Panofka, Concone, and Marchesi. Third grade, technical exercises from Marchesi, Panofka, Concone, and Aprile. Fourth grade, exercises from Marchesi, Seiber, Bordogni, and Lamperti. Fifth grade, review of former grades, study of embellishments and scales in the different modes.

Courses in Other Instruments.

There is a complete curriculum for the cabinet organ, violin, guitar, mandolin, and banjo. Other instruments taught, if desired.

ÆOLIAN ORCHESTRA.

VOCAL CULTURE.

Per term of 10 weeks (20 lessons), with Director, $15.

HARMONY (regular course).

Per term of 10 weeks, $10.

ORGAN (Cabinet).

Per term of 10 weeks, $12.

For further particulars, write for special circular.

Shorthand and Typewriting.

In response to a very general demand, the Board has provided for special instruction in shorthand and typewriting. A thoroughly competent and experienced stenographer and typewriter, Mr. Earl Shepherd, has been secured for this work. The course will include phonetics, phonography or phonetic shorthand, typewriting and typewriter forms, together with lectures on office methods and the adaptation of phonography to the teacher's work.

The aim is to fit young men and women for efficient work as amanuenses and reporters, and, also, to give such a knowledge of the art and science of phonography, and such skill in the manipulation of the typewriter, as will be of great value to teachers in every department of school work.

The Benn Pitman system of phonography and the all-finger method of typewriting are taught. The texts used are as follows: The Manual of Phonography, First and Second Phonographic Readers, the Reporter's Companion, the Reporter's First Reader, and Elias Longley's Typewriter Instruction Books. A complete line of reference books is also placed at the disposal of students.

The fees are as reasonable as those charged by any good school of shorthand and typewriting. For further information, address the President or Mr. Shepherd.

Alumni Record.

The data given are the latest which we, after very great effort, are able to obtain. With few exceptions, we have been able to verify them to date. The friends would confer a favor by reporting to this office any inaccuracies which may be found, and by promptly notifying us, as changes in their own occupation or location may be made. It is our purpose to spare no pains to make the record of each year as nearly complete as possible, and we ask for the hearty coöperation of all.

Explanation of the Courses of Study.

ELEMENTARY COURSE.—This course consists of the first, second, and fourth years' work.

ENGLISH COURSE.—This course consists of all the work of the four years, Latin third year excepted, and one full-term optional subject; also special drill in method of grading and superintending schools.

LATIN COURSE.—This course is the same as the English, with Latin substituted for subjects as designated.

THE ACADEMIC COURSE consists of the first three years' work and physiology or mental science, as the student may elect. A CERTIFICATE OF GRADUATION is given on the completion of this course. It is not a certificate to teach.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject with a standing of at least 80 per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course), in the Model Department, one hour per day for 40 weeks, or its equivalent.

Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Students completing one full term of an advanced course in oratory, in drawing, or one year of postgraduate Latin, may substitute the same for a corresponding term's work in the third year.

 Pupils who lack a record in any first-term subject are not admitted to work in teaching.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the schools of Kansas. Those completing the first two years' work, together with one full term of some strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year state certificate, good in any county in the state. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University, or the State Agricultural College, will, without examination, be credited with such class records as are 80 per cent. or above.

Graduates in the Arts Course, or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges, will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the school, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course here will include a review of the common branches.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the strictly professional branches are grouped in a single year.

Each subject in the first, second and fourth years is taught every term. The same is true of some of the subjects in the third year. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class for 20 weeks, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar and criticism, 10 weeks; reading and orthoëpy, 10 weeks; United States history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; drawing, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks; introductory Latin, 20 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department. The work in drawing and penmanship is the same as the work in the B class in the Normal Department, and pupils receiving grades of 80 per cent., or above, will not be required to take these subjects in the Normal Department. Pupils may take introductory Latin in place of drawing and penmanship, if they prefer. No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test falling below 80 per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requisite for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department.

List of Text-Books Used.

Algebra, Wells; Arithmetic, Ray; Astronomy, Young's Elements; Bookkeeping, The Complete Practical; Botany, Gray's Lessons Revised, and Field Book; Chemistry, Remsen; Constitution, Andrews; Drawing, Prang's American Text, Goodyear's History of Art; Elocution, Emerson; English Literature, Emery; Political Geography, Fisher's Essentials; Physical Geography, Eclectic; Geology, Le Conte's Compend; Geometry, Wentworth; Grammar, Reed & Kellogg; History, U. S., Johnston; History, General, Myers; History of Education, Painter and Boone; Latin, Allen & Greenough's Grammar, Collar and Daniels's Beginner's Book, Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar; Methods, Wickersham; Music, Appleton's Series; Orthography, Reed's Word Lessons; Philosophy of Education, Rosenkranz; Penmanship, Stevenson; Physics, Gage; Physiology, Martin's Human Body (unabridged); Psychology, Dewey; Rhetoric, Genung; School Economy, Wickersham; Trigonometry and Surveying, Wentworth; Zoölogy, Packard and Colton.

Students are advised to bring their old text-books with them, as they will be useful for reference. Books needed in class work are furnished to Normal students by the city dealers at wholesale prices. Second-hand books can also be bought at the stores.

Postgraduate Course.

Any graduate in the Elementary, Latin or English course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of 80 per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4,000 to 5,000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to a special diploma from the Board of Regents. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the School. The diploma will be issued only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to a diploma, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into 20 lessons, requiring 10 hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examinations are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

* Special class. Subjects occupying upper part of space are taught the first half of term; those in lower part, the latter half. The others are full-term (20 weeks) subjects. The training classes meet in the afternoon. The Normal classes in callisthenics meet in the gymnasium for the first 15 minutes of each vacant hour.

General Information.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the School are best set forth in the act of the legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School." "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition.
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self-government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a state.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view always proves the most skillful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificate are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination.

They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificate are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of 80 per cent. on examination in the common branches— arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, United States history, writing, and spelling—and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominative numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, state, and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes, their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed & Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our schoolbooks and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of $1 is charged for all such special examinations, except those given on Monday and Tuesday of the eleventh week of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

In addition to the foregoing requirements for admission to the Normal Department, candidates must subscribe to the following declaration and pledge:

"I hereby declare that my purpose in entering the State Normal School is to fit myself to teach in the schools of Kansas, and I solemnly agree after leaving the same to report to the President of the Faculty semi-annually, for three years, my location and occupation."

Those who prefer to pay the fee charged academic and special students, however, are excused from subscribing to the above. (See Fees.) Those who are taking the academic course and are enrolled in the academic department do not subscribe to the above. Students who prefer to pursue subjects in the course of study irregularly—that is, not in the order as prescribed—are, on payment of the fee as named, permitted to enroll as special students.

Teachers holding second-grade certificates will be admitted to subjects in the course which may be required for the first-grade certificate, if they desire, without being classified as irregular.

Civil law, methods, and school management may be taken by students anticipating examinations for certificates in which they are required, without being classed as irregular.

In each case where a member of the Faculty gives a written concession for a future examination, the student will be expected to meet the requirement at the time specified or become irregular.

Optionals must be taken in the order of the subjects for which they are substituted.

Final Examinations.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation after Wednesday of the eleventh week of the second term.

Fees.

No fees are charged students in the Normal Department. Students in the Academic Department and in the sub-normal classes are charged an incidental fee of $5 per term of 20 weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month. Special students are charged the same fees.

All students whose residences are outside of the state immediately preceding the time of entrance are subject to the same fees as academic students.

The fee for either special course in kindergarten and primary methods is $5.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Mileage.

All students meeting the regular requirements for admission, and those who are pursuing the two years' course in kindergarten, may have necessary railroad fare in excess of $3 refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students in attendance for the entire year.

Students in attendance for one full term of 20 weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded.

Mileage is paid only to students living more than 100 miles from Emporia and within the limits of the state of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.35 and $2.75 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3 to $3.25 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the state shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, capable of accommodating from two to four students, rent for from $2 to $4 per month. Furnished rooms rent for from $4 to $6 per month.

Secondhand Stores.

There are several good secondhand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell at a loss about equal to rent of furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of 20 Weeks.

Board and fuel.....	From $25 to $60
Books.....	" 5 " 8
Total*.....	From $36 to $78

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average yearly expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59. Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of 20 weeks, was one-half of these amounts.

Building, Apparatus, etc.

The building, recently enlarged, is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is nearly 300 feet long, and the entire building contains 77 rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. It is supplied with water from the city waterworks, with gas, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The new assembly room is said to be the finest auditorium in the state. The laboratories for the departments of the natural sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing each year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

* Students not regularly in the Normal Department will add $5 for the incidental fee.

The library and reading room occupy a handsome suite of four rooms on the second floor.

The Music Department occupies four fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses seven pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accommodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses completer facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The Regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make liberal provisions for their use by the pupil teachers.

A room in the basement is furnished with tables and tools, including turning lathe, scroll saw, etc., for work in manual training. The work in this room comprehends a variety of simple exercises in wood—slip work, joinery work, wood carving, etc. This addition to the appliances of the School is becoming a very popular feature, both as giving an acquaintance with the work in manual training which can be done in the public schools, and as furnishing opportunity for practice in the making of a variety of simple apparatus for illustration.

The new gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow; also, a complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the library is located in a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor. It contains, including the additions to be made this summer, nearly 12,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents is proving a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imperative in the education of teachers than a good professional library. In selecting a school in which to secure an education, young men and women should not forget this feature of the State Normal School.

Course in Reading.

The following-named books are suggested for general reading during attendance at the School. It is thought that every pupil will find time each term to read at least two of the books named for his class. Some will be able to read them all.

For the A Class.—The Talisman, Scott; Forms of Water, Tyndall; History of the English People, Green; Longfellow's Poems; Gold Foil, J. G. Holland; Life of George Washington, Irving.

For the B Class.—Life of Thomas Jefferson, Parton; A Tale of Two Cities, Dickens; Conquest of Mexico, Prescott; Travels, Bayard Taylor; Orators and Oratory, Mathews; Lowell's Poems.

For the C Class.—Leonardo da Vinci; Ben-Hur, Gen. Lew. Wallace; Beacon Lights of History, Lord; Essays, Addison; The Sun, Dr. A. C. Young; Tennyson's Poems.

For the D Class.—Romola, George Eliot; History of France, Guizot; Poems, Scott; Essays, Ruskin; The Queens of England, Strickland; Homes without Hands, Wood.

For the E Class.—Last Days of Pompeii, Lytton; History of England, Macaulay; Poems, Goethe; Essays, Carlyle; Life of Oliver Cromwell, Carlyle; Sketches of Creation, Winchell.

For the F Class.—Les Miserables, Victor Hugo; Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire, Gibbon; Milton (English Men of Letters Series); Poems, Mrs. Browning; Essays, Emerson; Solar Physics, Proctor.

For the G Class.—Sans Souci, Mühlbach; Rise of the Dutch Republic, Motley; Poems, Milton; Essays, Macaulay; Life of Thomas Carlyle, Froude; The Atomic Theory, Wurtz.

For the H Class.—The Marble Faun, Hawthorne; History of the United States, Bancroft; Poetry, Shakespeare; Essays, Bacon; Frederick the Great, Carlyle; Conservation of Energy, Balfour Stewart.

Reading Room.

Our tables are liberally supplied with periodicals adapted to the general as well as to the special wants of the pupils. The publishers of the following papers, and friends, have kindly placed the School upon their regular mailing list:

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the class room is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings, in their large and tastefully-furnished halls. The Alpha Society and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of five entertainments, reserved seats included, are $1 each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by Henry Watterson, George Kennan, Max O'Rell, Mozart Symphony Club, and the Ariel Sextette. In addition, this year, Senator John B. Gordon, of Georgia, lectured on "The Last Days of the Confederacy."

The members of the Faculty delivered formal lectures on the following topics: President Taylor, "The Cotton Centennial Exposition," with stereopticon views; Professor Wilkinson, "Travels in Europe," with stereopticon views; Professor Dinsmore, "The Structure of the Heavenly Bodies," with stereopticon views; Professor Bailey, "The Equation in Arithmetic"; Professor Kelly, "The Yellowstone Park," with stereopticon views; Professor Hill, "Morals, the State, and the Common School"; Professor Jones, "Truth, the Need of the Hour"; Professor Stevenson, "Slanting versus Vertical Writing"; Professor Johnson, "The Study of History"; Professor Boyle, "Music Study."

During the past year, a special course of lectures to the training classes has been given, by leading superintendents of the state. The course has been attended by several hundred students from the other classes, and has proved a helpful feature. The topics discussed have been of a practical nature. Supt. William Richardson, of Wichita, talked on "Management of Pupils"; Superintendent Glotfelter, of Atchison, "The Special Preparation Needed by the Teacher"; Superintendent Benton, of Fort Scott, "The New Teacher, and the Things he Cannot Learn from Books"; Superintendent Davidson, of Topeka, "Defects in Teachers I have Known"; and State Superintendent Stanley on "Relation of the Teacher to the Superintendent."

One of the pleasant features of the School is the frequent appearance on the platform, at the morning hour, of distinguished men and women in the various walks of life. Their informal talks are often most eloquent and helpful.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered by the Regents for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, oration, and dramatic art.

Major Calvin Hood, of this city, kindly offers a cash prize of $30 for the contestant ranking highest in the February debate, and $10 for the second in rank. I. J. Bradford and G. W. Plummer were the respective winners of these prizes in the last debate.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Intercollegiate Association of Kansas.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the February contest in debate.

The prize in last June debate was won by the Literati Society, represented by P. A. Claassen and A. H. Epperson; in the last February debate, by the Belles-lettres Society, represented by I. J. Bradford and G. W. Plummer.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Marie Lou Ludorff.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Mary Ray McIntyre.

The prize in last contest in oration was won by Forrest Woodside.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any other institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admission and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high-school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 59.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited. The city is liberally supplied with churches, whose doors are ever wide open to all.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the state.

The street cars run from both of the city railroad depots to the Normal grounds; fare, 5 cents.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Monthly, which has a large circulation, and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables it to present certain phases of its work to the public. The subscription price is 50 cents per year.

An athletic association, composed of members of the Faculty and students, provides outdoor exercises and amusements in abundance, including baseball, lawn tennis, croquet, golf, bicycling, military drill, pentathlon exercises, etc. The field-day exercises, at which all these sections come together, is one of the great features of the year. The military company is supplied with arms by the state, and the weekly drills are very popular.

Summer Classes.

The summer classes formed for the past two years immediately after commencement have become very popular. The enrollment last summer reached a total of 275 students. Beginning June 14, 1895, the following-named teachers will conduct classes in their specialties: Professors Kelly, Hill, Stevenson, and Boyle. Address any one of them for terms and particulars.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behindhand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves to the inconvenience and expense of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

The Y. P. S. C. E. publishes an annual directory, which contains a full list of boarding places, rooms, clubs, map of city, etc., and much other valuable information. It will be mailed on receipt of a 2-cent stamp, or can be obtained free by calling at the office of the State Normal School.

 Read this catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1,504, and in the Model School 145. A limited number only is admitted to the Model School.

Over 650 students held teachers' certificates on entering; 165 held first-grade and 310 second-grade certificates; over 100 were graduates of high schools, academies, or colleges.

The class of 1895, 109 members, averages 25 years of age and nearly 3 years' teaching experience.

The average age in the Normal Department was  $21\frac{1}{2}$  years.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the School is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 90 in all, were represented in the Normal Department during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children:

Outline of Instruction.

THE following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for a second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Descriptive Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc. Origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is given also. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Choral Class.—This class meets once a week. Students who are already readers of music can enter this class without charge, and will find there an excellent opportunity for chorus training.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Staff notation and principles of tonic sol-fa, time names, intervals, triads, and chords of the dominant and other sevenths, in both major and minor modes, are taught. Short talks and lectures in history of notation and methods of teaching are given.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year each student prepares and presents, independent of any suggestion from anyone, some standard English or American oration. During the last 10 weeks, the class study a play of Shakespeare's, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first 10 weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body and voice all cultured, and each responsive to the others.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the 20 weeks, eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural, artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte movements. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be obtained only by development of mind and soul. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, pupils discover the physiological and æsthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation, our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academical algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Twenty weeks. To the oblique spherical triangle; the use of drawing instruments—the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; ability to teach the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for 10 weeks in actual field work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. The Eclectic text is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany.—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; the preparation of an herbarium of 50 plants; three hours of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one-half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of over 200 species of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, 50 typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blow-pipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating the cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, decomposing new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The pupils in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the pupils devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Natural Philosophy.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Penmanship and Bookkeeping.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible and rapid writer, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. More than mere theoretical knowledge of the subject is required, and practice is made to conform to theory, regardless of the length of time it may take. The minimum time required for home practice is an average of 90 minutes per day. The home practice is upon a graded series of script plates, showing the relations of letters and their combinations; also, upon business forms, letter writing, etc. This work is submitted to the teacher daily during the last five weeks of the term, for his criticism. The student's grade is determined by the plates and forms which he may have had approved. While the forms of the letters are a modification of the Spencerian, the method depends upon movement as the means, and considers legible, rapid writing the end desired.

The following subjects are fully explained and illustrated: Methods of teaching writing in the grades; vertical versus slant writing; natural slant; size; spacing; shading; movement; technical analysis; speed; position; materials, etc., etc.

Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. Double-entry bookkeeping, in all its various forms and modifications, is taught by the keeping of regular sets of books. The theory and relation of single and double entry are thoroughly taught, as well as the changing of a set of books from one system to the other. The student becomes familiar, by use, with business forms of all kinds, and the elements of commercial law. The "Complete Practical Bookkeeping" is the text-book used by the student as a guide in definitions and forms. The work includes also the principles of commercial law, and special sets of books involving partnership formations and settlements, shipments and consignments, special-column journal, etc., which are prepared by the teacher of the department. Ten weeks' additional advanced work is offered in a special class each term to those desiring it.

Drawing.

Three terms of 10 weeks each.

First Term.—Geometric problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, history of art, free-hand drawing from models and casts.

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the 30 weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in that direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it. A definite course is arranged for the 20 weeks, requiring the same time and preparation as for all other regular studies, and it can be substituted for any subject in the third year of the regular course.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more advanced work than can be taken up in the regular course of study is met, and several graduates of the School have availed themselves of the privilege during the present year.

History and Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Johnston. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basic principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work—a short, terse essay—must then be presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is twofold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, mediæval and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrews' Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the state governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, coöperative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of æsthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secure the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's-eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special view point of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics, it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—Eighty weeks required, 40 weeks additional offered, in four years' Latin course. First year, first 20 weeks: Fifty lessons Collar & Daniell's Beginner's Book. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercises in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Cæsar, first book, Helvetian war. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Cæsar's Gallic war. First book completed, second, third and fourth books read. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the four against Catiline, and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid of Vergil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Sixth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid, fifth and sixth books. General study of Latin literature. Grammatical review.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology.—Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented by Dewey is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on the same subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education.—Ten weeks. With the 20 weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkranz is used as a text.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools, districts, sites, buildings, and their equipments, grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing coöperation of pupils, qualifications and duties of teachers, school boards and their duties, etc.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do 45 minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the everyday work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

Methods.—Twenty weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during 10 weeks, and the teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement the work of the book with from two to four lectures each on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge supplements the text with the discussion of the latest and most-approved methods and theories in regard to the subjects discussed.

Kindergarten and Primary Work.—Ten weeks. Froebel's gifts; lectures, with illustrations. Sewing, including drawing of original designs; weaving, including instructions on colors and harmony of colors, patterns from dictation, copying, and originals. Paper folding; forms of life and forms of beauty. Paper cutting; Froebel's system; designs formed from seventh-gift tablets; use of knives; making objects; in combining with seventh gift tablets. Clay molding, preparing of clay; objects, based on ball, cylinder, and cube. Use of sticks in drawing. Use of rings in drawing. Study of Froebel's life and his work. Methods of teaching numbers in the first grade. Methods of teaching reading. Methods of teaching spelling and writing. Object teaching. Observation in the kindergarten. An advanced course in kindergarten proper is provided for those who wish to make it a specialty.

School Law.—The subject is prefaced by a thorough discussion of the endowment by the national government of all the schools in the states and territories; also, miscellaneous appropriations to the permanent school fund from colonial times to the present. The statute laws of the state relating to public education are studied under four heads—organization, management, classification, and support. A comparison of the laws of Kansas with those of other states is made, making special reference to the above points and the relative degree of efficiency. The technicalities of law involved in the disposition of school lands, and the opinion on doubtful points of law given by the state superintendents and attorneys general, are fully discussed. The laws of the more important European countries relating to the common schools are examined and compared with those of our own.

Along with this work, a few weeks are given to a study of the outline of civil government in Kansas.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Roberts' manual as authority. The orations take advanced special drill for 20 weeks in the art of expression, and 10 weeks to lectures and criticism. Ten lectures on elementary logic are given the class in oration during the last term. In all this work a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about 15 minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, bean bags and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music. The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils having requisite records in the physical-training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium. The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticise the work of pupil teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application. The value of the kindergarten work can hardly be overestimated. Its methods are fundamental, and should be understood by all teachers.

SPECIAL COURSES.

Vocal and Instrumental Music.

Piano.—The curriculum comprises six grades. The first-grade studies are selected from the works of Mathews, Gurlitt, Kohler, or Loeschhorn. The second from Lemoine, Duvernoy, Burgmuller, or Loeschhorn. The third part from Heller, Hassert, Biehl, Behrens, and Bach. The fourth from Cramer, Czerny, and Bach. The fifth from Moscheles, Czerny, and Clementi. The sixth from Henselt and Chopin. Daily technic accompanies each grade; also pieces and sonatas from the best modern and classic writers.

Vocal Culture.—Plain, simple exercises, such as tend to place, strengthen and produce flexibility of voice, are given at first. Work in first grade consists principally of dictation exercises adapted to the needs of the pupil. The second-grade studies are selected from Bonaldi, Panofka, Concone, and Marchesi. Third grade, technical exercises from Marchesi, Panofka, Concone, and Aprile. Fourth grade, exercises from Marchesi, Seiber, Bordogni, and Lamperti. Fifth grade, review of former grades, study of embellishments and scales in the different modes.

Courses in Other Instruments.

There is a complete curriculum for the cabinet organ, violin, guitar, mandolin, and banjo. Other instruments taught, if desired.

Free Classes.

Free classes in theory, harmony, and musical analysis. Pupils completing the full course in vocal or in instrumental music will receive the certificate of the department, attested by the President of the School.

Terms for Special Instruction.

PIANO.

Per term of 10 weeks (20 lessons), with Mrs. Boyle, $15; with first assistant, $12; with second assistant, $10; with third assistant, $8.

VOCAL CULTURE.

Per term of 10 weeks (20 lessons), with Director, $15.

HARMONY (Regular Course).

Per term of 10 weeks, $10.

ORGAN (Cabinet).

Per term of 10 weeks, $12.

For further particulars, write for special circular.

Shorthand.

Private instruction in shorthand may be secured at reasonable rates.

Alumni Record.

The data given are the latest which we, after very great effort, are able to obtain. With few exceptions, we have been able to verify them to date. The friends would confer a favor by reporting to this office any inaccuracies which may be found, and by promptly notifying us, as changes in their own occupation or location may be made. It is our purpose to spare no pains to make the record of each year as nearly complete as possible, and we ask for the hearty coöperation of all. □

* Optional with third-year subjects, term for term.

Explanation of the Courses of Study.

Elementary Course.—This course consists of the first, second, and fourth years' work.

English Course.—This course consists of all the work of the four years, Latin third year excepted, and one full-term optional subject; also special drill in methods of grading and superintending schools.

Latin Course.—This course is the same as the English, with Latin substituted for subjects as designated.

The Academic Course consists of the first three years' work and physiology or mental science, as the student may elect. A certificate of graduation is given on the completion of this course. It is not a certificate to teach.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject with a standing of at least 80 per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course), in the Model Department, one hour per day for 40 weeks, or its equivalent.

Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Students completing one full term of an advanced course in drawing, in oratory, or one year of postgraduate Latin, may substitute the same for a corresponding term's work in the third year. No more than three terms optional work may be substituted, however.

Pupils who lack a record in any first-term subject are not admitted to classes in fourth year subjects, except methods, management, and civil law.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the schools of Kansas. Those completing the first two years' work, together with one full term of some strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year state certificate, good in any county in the state. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University, or the State Agricultural College, will, without examination, be credited with such class records as are 80 per cent. or above.

Graduates in the Arts Course, or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges, will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course here will include a review of the common branches.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the strictly professional branches are grouped in a single year.

Each subject in the first, second and fourth years is taught every term. The same is true of some of the subjects in the third year. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class for 20 weeks, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar and criticism, 10 weeks; reading and orthoepy, 10 weeks; United States history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; drawing, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks; introductory Latin, 20 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department. The work in drawing and penmanship is the same as the work in the B class in the Normal Department, and pupils receiving grades of 80 per cent., or above, will not be required to take these subjects in the Normal Department. Pupils may take introductory Latin in place of drawing and penmanship, if they prefer. No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test falling below 80 per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requisite for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department.

List of Text-Books Used.

Algebra, Wells; Arithmetic, Ray; Astronomy, Young's Elements; Bookkeeping, The Complete Practical; Botany, Gray's Lessons Revised, and Field Book; Chemistry, Remsen; Constitution, Andrews; Drawing, Prang's American Text, Goodyear's History of Art; Elocution, Emerson; English Literature, Emery;

Political Geography, Fisher's Essentials; Physical Geography, Eclectic; Geology, Le Conte's Compend; Geometry, Wentworth; Grammar, Reed & Kellogg; History, U. S., Johnston; History, General, Myers; History of Education, Painter and Boone; Latin, Allen & Greenough's Grammar, Collar & Daniell's Beginner's Book, Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar; Methods, Wickersham; Music, Appleton's Series; Orthography, Reed's Word Lessons; Philosophy of Education, Rosenkranz; Penmanship, Stevenson; Physics, Gage; Physiology, Martin's Human Body (unabridged); Psychology, Dewey; Rhetoric, Genung; School Economy, Wickersham; Trigonometry and Surveying, Wentworth; Zoology, Packard and Colton.

Students are advised to bring their old text-books with them, as they will be useful for reference. Books needed in class work are furnished to Normal students by the city dealers at wholesale prices. Second hand books can also be bought at the stores.

Any graduate in the Elementary, Latin or English course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of 80 per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4,000 to 5,000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to a special diploma from the Board of Regents. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the School. The diploma will be issued only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to a diploma, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into 20 lessons, requiring 10 hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examinations are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

General Information.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the School are best set forth in the act of the legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School." "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition.
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self-government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a state.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view always proves the most skillful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificates are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination. They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificates, are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of 80 per cent. on examination in the common branches—arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, United States history, writing, and spelling—and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominative numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, state, and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes and their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed & Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our schoolbooks and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of $1 is charged for all such special examinations, except those given on Monday and Tuesday of the eleventh week of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

In addition to the foregoing requirements for admission to the Normal Department, candidates must subscribe to the following declaration and pledge:

"I hereby declare that my purpose in entering the State Normal School is to fit myself to teach in the schools of Kansas, and I solemnly agree after leaving the same to report to the President of the Faculty semi-annually, for three years, my location and occupation."

Those who prefer to pay the fee charged academic and special students, however, are excused from subscribing to the above. (See Fees.) Those who are taking the academic course and are enrolled in the academic department do not subscribe to the above. Students who prefer to pursue subjects in the course of study irregularly—that is, not in the order as prescribed—are, on payment of the fee as named, permitted to enroll as special students.

Teachers holding second-grade certificates will be admitted to subjects in the course which may be required for the first-grade certificate, if they desire, without being classified as irregular.

Civil law, methods, and school management may be taken by students anticipating examinations for certificates in which they are required, without being classed as irregular.

In each case where a member of the Faculty gives a written concession for a future examination, the student will be expected to meet the requirement at the time specified or become irregular.

Optionals must be taken in the order of the subjects for which they are substituted.

Final Examinations.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation after Wednesday of the eleventh week of the second term.

Fees.

No fees are charged students in the Normal Department. Students in the Academic Department and in the sub-normal classes are charged an incidental fee of $5 per term of 20 weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month. Special students are charged the same fees.

All students whose residences are outside of the state immediately preceding the time of entrance are subject to the same fees as academic students.

The fee for either special course in kindergarten and primary methods is $5.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Mileage.

All students meeting the regular requirements for admission to the Normal Department; and those who are pursuing the two years' course in kindergarten, may have necessary railroad fare in excess of $3 refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students in attendance for the entire year.

Students in attendance for one full term of 20 weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded. Payment is made at the end of each term.

Mileage is paid only to students living more than 100 miles from Emporia and within the limits of the state of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.35 and $2.75 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3 to $3.25 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the state shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, capable of accommodating from two to four students, rent for from $2 to $4 per month. Furnished rooms rent for from $4 to $6 per month.

Secondhand Stores.

There are several good secondhand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell at a loss about equal to rent of furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of 20 Weeks.

Board and fuel .....	From $25 to $69
Books .....	From 5 to 8
Washing .....	From 6 to 10
Total* .....	From $36 to $78

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average yearly expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59. Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of 20 weeks, was one-half of these amounts.

Building, Apparatus, etc.

The building, recently enlarged, is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is nearly 300 feet long, and the entire building contains

* Students not regularly in Normal Department will add $5 for incidental fee.

77 rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. It is supplied with water from the city water works, with gas, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The new assembly room is said to be the finest auditorium in the state. The laboratories for the departments of the natural sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing every year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

The library and reading room occupy a handsome suite of four rooms on the second floor.

The Music Department occupies four fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses seven pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accommodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses completer facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The Regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make liberal provisions for their use by the pupil teachers.

A room in the basement is furnished with tables and tools, including turning lathe, scroll saw, etc., for work in manual training. The work in this room comprehends a variety of simple exercises in wood—slip work, joinery work, wood carving, etc. This addition to the appliances of the School is becoming a very popular feature, both as giving an acquaintance with the work in manual training which can be done in the public schools, and as furnishing opportunity for practice in the making of a variety of simple apparatus for illustration.

The new gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells, and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow; also, a complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the library is located in a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor. It contains nearly 12,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents is proving a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imperative in the education of teachers than a good professional library. In selecting a school in which to secure an education, young men and women should not forget this feature of the State Normal School.

Courses in Reading.

The following courses are outlined for general reading during attendance at the School. Pupils are urged to select some one of the courses named for each term and plan to read at least five out of the eight books named in the course.

FOR THE SUB-NORMAL CLASS.

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the class room is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings, in their large and tastefully furnished halls. The Alpha Society and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of five entertainments, reserved seats included, are $1 each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by the Musin Concert Company, Dr. P. S. Henson, Gen. O. O. Howard, the Schubert Quintette, Dr. J. T. Hedley, and Leland Powers.

The members of the Faculty delivered formal lectures on the following topics: President Taylor, "Child Study"; Professor Wilkinson, "European Cities," with stereopticon views; Professor Bailey, "Numeration and Notation"; Professor Hill, "The Library and its Place in Education"; Professor Jones, "Forensics"; Professor Hoaglin, "The Art of Expression"; Professor Boyle, "Music"; Professor Whitney, "The Great American Desert."

One of the pleasant features of the School is the frequent appearance on the platform, at the morning hour, of distinguished men and women in the various walks of life. Their informal talks are often most eloquent and helpful.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered by the Regents for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, oration, and dramatic art.

Major Calvin Hood, of this city, kindly offers a cash prize of $30 for the contestant ranking highest in the March debate, and $10 for the second in rank. J. S. O'Connor and W. W. Harvey were the respective winners of these prizes in the last debate.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Inter-State Normal Oratorical League.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the February contest in debate.

The prize in last June debate was won by the Lyceum Society, represented by H. L. McClurkin and W. M. Edgerton; in the last March debate, by the Literati Society, represented by W. W. Harvey and A. W. Rundle.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Mamie B. Pigg.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Carrie B. Stittsworth.

The prize in last contest in oration was won by I. J. Bradford.

The prize in last contest in dramatic art was won by the Philomathian Society.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any other institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admission and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high-school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 57.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited. The city is liberally supplied with churches, whose doors are ever wide open to all.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the state.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Monthly, which has a large circulation, and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables it to present certain phases of its work to the public. The subscription price is 50 cents per year.

A stock company of students publish the Students' Salute, a weekly paper full of Normal news and of items of general interest. Subscription, 50 cents per year. The Monthly and it combined, 65 cents per year.

An athletic association, composed of members of the Faculty and students, provides outdoor exercises and amusements in abundance, including baseball, lawn tennis, croquet, golf, bicycling, military drill, pentathlon exercises, etc. The field-day exercises, at which all these sections come together, is one of the great features of the year. The military company is supplied with arms by the state, and the weekly drills are very popular.

Summer Classes.

The summer classes formed for the past three years immediately after commencement have become very popular. The enrollment last summer reached a total of 136 students. Beginning June 12, 1896, the following-named teachers will conduct classes in their specialties: President Taylor and Professors Wilkinson, Kelly, Hill, Stevenson, Johnson, Whitney, Harris, and Boyle, and Messrs. Payne and Elias. Address any one of them for terms and particulars.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behindhand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves to the inconvenience and expense of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

The Y. P. S. C. E. publishes an annual directory, which contains a full list of boarding places, rooms, clubs, man of city, etc., and much other valuable information. It will be mailed on receipt of a 2-cent stamp, or can be obtained free by calling at the office of the State Normal School.

Read this catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1,554, and in the Model School 185. A limited number only is admitted to the Model School.

Seven hundred and twenty-two students held teachers' certificates on entering; 164 held first-grade and 361 second-grade certificates; nearly 200 were graduates of high schools, academies, or colleges.

The class of 1896, 100 members, averages nearly 26 years of age and nearly 5 years' teaching experience.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the School is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 89 in all, were represented during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children:

Outline of Instruction.

The following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for a second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Political Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc. Origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is also given. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Choral Class.—This class meets once a week. Students who are already readers of music can enter this class without charge, and will find there an excellent opportunity for chorus training.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Staff notation and principles of tonic sol-fa, time names, intervals, triads, and chords of the dominant and other sevenths, in both major and minor modes, are taught. Short talks and lectures in history of notation and methods of teaching are given.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year each student prepares and presents, independent of any suggestion from anyone, some standard English or American oration. During the last 10 weeks, the class study a Shakesperian play, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first 10 weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body and voice all cultured, and each responsive to the others.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the 20 weeks, eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural, artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte system. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be obtained only by development of mind and soul. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, pupils discover the physiological and esthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation, our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academical algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Twenty weeks. To the oblique spherical triangle; the use of drawing instruments—the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; ability to teach the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for 10 weeks in actual field work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. The Eclectic text is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany.—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; the preparation of an herbarium of 50 plants; three hours of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one-half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of over 200 species of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, 50 typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blow-pipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating the cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, decomposing new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The pupils in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the pupils devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Physics.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Penmanship and Bookkeeping.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible and rapid writer, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. More than mere theoretical knowledge of the subject is required, and practice is made to conform to theory, regardless of the length of time it may take. The minimum time required for home practice is an average of 90 minutes per day. The home practice is upon a graded series of script plates, showing the relations of letters and their combinations; also, upon business forms, letter writing, etc. This work is submitted to the teacher daily during the last five weeks of the term, for his criticism. The student's grade is determined by the plates and forms which he may have had approved. While the forms of the letters are a modification of the Spencerian, the method depends upon movement as the means, and considers legible, rapid writing the end desired.

The following subjects are fully explained and illustrated: Methods of teaching writing in the grades; vertical versus slant writing, natural slant, size, spacing, shading, movement, technical analysis, speed, position, materials, etc., etc.

Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. Double-entry bookkeeping, in all its various forms and modifications, is taught by the keeping of regular sets of books. The theory and relation of single and double entry are thoroughly taught, as well as the changing of a set of books from one system to the other. The student becomes familiar, by use, with business forms of all kinds, and the elements of commercial law. The "Complete Practical Bookkeeping" is the text-book used by the student as a guide in definitions and forms. The work includes also the principles of commercial law, and special sets of books involving partnership formations and settlements, shipments and consignments, special-column journal, etc., which are prepared by the teacher of the department. Ten weeks' additional advanced work is offered in a special class each term to those desiring it.

Drawing.

Three terms of 10 weeks each.

First Term.—Geometric problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, history of art, free-hand drawing from models and casts.

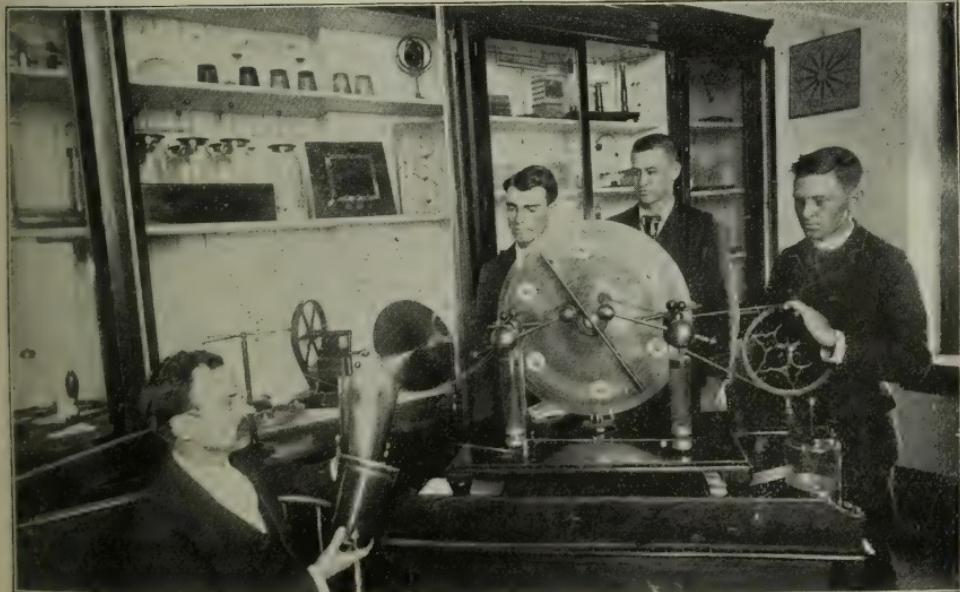

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the 30 weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in that direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it. A definite course is arranged for the 20 weeks, requiring the same time and preparation as for all other regular studies, and it can be substituted for any subject in the third year of the regular course.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more ad-

History and Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basic principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work—a short, terse essay—must then be presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is twofold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, mediaeval and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrews' Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the state governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, co-operative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of esthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secure the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special view point of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics, it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—Eighty weeks required, 40 weeks additional offered, in four years' Latin course. First year, first 20 weeks: Fifty lessons Collar & Daniell's Beginner's Book. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercises in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Caesar, first book, Helvetian war. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Caesar's Gallic War. First book completed, second, third and fourth books read. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the four against Catiline, and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Aeneid of Vergil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology.—Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented by Dewey is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on the same subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education.—Ten weeks. With the 20 weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkranz is used as a text.

School Law.—The subject is prefaced by a thorough discussion of the endowment by the national government of all the schools in the states and territories; also, miscellaneous appropriations to the permanent school fund from colonial times to the present. The statute laws of the state relating to public education are studied under four heads—organization, management, classification, and support. A comparison of the laws of Kansas with those of other states is made, making special reference to the above points and the relative degree of efficiency. The technicalities of law involved in the disposition of school lands, and the opinion on doubtful points of law given by the state superintendents and attorneys general, are fully discussed. The laws of the more important European countries relating to the common schools are examined and compared with those of our own.

Along with this work, a few weeks are given to a study of Taylor's Outline of Civil Government in Kansas.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools, districts, sites, buildings, and their equipments, grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing co-operation of pupils, qualifications and duties of teachers, school boards and their duties, etc.

Methods: General.—Ten weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during 10 weeks, and the teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement the work of the book with from two to four lectures each on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge supplements the text with the discussion of the latest and most-approved methods and theories in regard to the subjects discussed.

Methods: Primary.—Ten weeks. The suggestions of the teacher are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the children. The leading features of the special training for primary teachers as described below are given in as full an epitome as time will allow. The principles and methods which every teacher ought to understand, even though not to engage in the actual teaching of the primary grades, are given to all who take the life-certificate diploma of the School.

Training for Primary Teachers.—This course in primary methods based on the kindergarten is specially suited to graduates of high schools who expect to teach in the lower grades of city schools. Teachers now engaged in primary grades will find it desirable to take this work. The principles of the kindergarten are applicable in so many of their phases to the teaching of any grades above the primary that every teacher finds them valuable.

The course is designed to occupy the entire time for ten weeks.

A certificate is given at its completion signed by the head of the kindergarten department, the President of the institution, and the principal of the training department. This has no legal value as a license to teach in the public schools. The same qualifications are required for entering this course as for entering the Normal Department.

The work begins with observing teaching done by the head of the department and discovering the principles of psychology upon which it is based. Afterward the student teaches and the work is discussed at the daily meeting. The training of the student teachers in story-telling is a feature much emphasized. As far as possible this course gives an understanding of the connected program arranged largely according to the seasons and the recurring changes of plant and animal life. The key-note for each day is given in the morning songs and talks, and the play period illustrates and explains how to make the kindergarten games helpful in all primary schools.

In the usual studies of the primary school, especial attention is devoted to preparation for reading, since the child must learn to read, that he may as soon as possible learn through reading. The first lessons are entirely from the blackboard, next comes the transition from script to print, after which the reading becomes a word, phrase, and thought study. The number work is begun with the very youngest classes, in connection with the study in color, form, and drawing, together with the different kindergarten occupations. The effort is made to lead the child to form the habit of correct and logical thinking. All the other subjects of primary schools are introduced with special reference to method.

The lectures on the gifts are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the youngest pupils. The first gift, the six soft balls, gives the three primary and the three secondary colors as a basis for the first lessons in form, color, and number, these lessons being given in connection with the games as well as in the lessons proper given to the children. The second gift, the wooden ball, cylinder, and cube, carries on the study of form, and of the different properties of matter, and gives the basis for the classification of objects. The early clay work is based on the forms of the second gift and illustrates the great principle underlying Froebel's work—the connection of opposites. The sphere and the cube are opposites; the cylinder is the mediator between them and possesses some qualities of each. This bringing together of the unlike for harmonious growth is illustrated in the organization of this department, which gives not the pure kindergarten alone, but pure primary also, the transition class being taken from kindergarten to primary by such easy steps that there is no abrupt change from concrete to abstract work. Particular attention is devoted to the matter of songs and games and their educative influences, as they, more than any other feature of Froebel's work, embody the great underlying principle of all education. Music in its educative value has an important place in this work. A feature in this line is the interpretation of piano music—"songs without words."

The study of the succeeding gifts assists the child in the analysis of the parts of the second gift. Along with this analysis, he makes further abstractions in number, in the study of the solid and its subdivisions, and the study of all the different surfaces, angles and lines presented. This work is done in connection with the periods devoted by the little ones to invention by the use of building blocks and other material. The occupations of the kindergarten, sewing, weaving, pasting, clay modeling, paper cutting and folding, are used not only with the kindergarten pupils but with the primary classes as well. The effort is to show the student teacher why and how these occupations are valuable for use in common schools, since kindergarten gifts and occupations are no better and no worse for study and for busy work than some other possible means of employment unless the teacher understands the philosophy underlying their use. In addition to this means of occupation, busy work growing naturally out of the usual primary studies is introduced, either to illustrate a previous recitation or to prepare for the next lesson.

An advanced course in kindergarten proper is provided for those who wish to make it a specialty.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do 45 minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the everyday work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticize the work of pupil teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Robert's manual as authority. The oration classes take special drill for 20 weeks in the art of expression, and 10 weeks to lectures and criticism. Ten lectures on elementary logic are given the class in oration during the last term. In all this work a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about 15 minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, bean bags and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music. The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils having requisite records in the physical-training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium. The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

SPECIAL COURSES.

Vocal and Instrumental Music.

The Department of Music in connection with the State Normal School is under the direction of Prof. Charles A. Boyle. The object of the department is to furnish a course of study which shall not only enable the students to perform selections of either instrumental or vocal music for mere entertainment and pleasure, but to lay the foundation so broad and deep that they shall become not only good performers but thorough musicians.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The department offers thorough and systematic instruction in piano, voice, violin, viola, banjo, mandolin, guitar, harmony, theory, sight singing, chorus, and orchestra.

Courses of study for graduation in piano, voice and violin have been selected and arranged, following the best-recognized methods of the leading schools and conservatories. All candidates for graduation are required to complete the courses in advanced harmony and theory.

PIANOFORTE.

The course of study for the pianoforte has recently been revised and enlarged. It includes all grades of exercises and compositions required for the most systematic development in execution and interpretation, both for teaching and artistic performance. Especial attention is paid to the development of a musical touch, a refined and intelligent style of playing. It will be the effort on the part of the teacher to adapt the instruction to the personal needs of the student.

Beginners and those not far advanced are especially welcome, as their progress under the methods used will be steady and rapid. The custom of beginning with untrained and inexperienced teachers is believed by many to be economy, while in reality it is much more expensive; for bad habits often are formed which necessarily retard one's progress, costing both time and money to eradicate.

Pupils on entering are graded upon quality, not quantity, of past work.

VOCAL CULTURE.

The voice is treated and vocalized in such a manner as to make purity and beauty of tone the especial feature. Great care is taken to insure pure vowel sounds, so that the pupil shows no unreasonable weakness when using any word occurring in a song; good enunciation being the advantageous result of such training.

VIOLIN AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS.

This course includes technical studies and exercises from the best modern works. In each grade such solos and pieces are given as will readily develop musical taste, style, and expression.

Special attention is given to sight-reading.

The Orchestra and Mandolin and Banjo Club are open to all pupils sufficiently advanced, and prove very attractive and beneficial to the members.

Classes of two for beginners in violin will be formed at reduced rates.

ADVANCED HARMONY.

A thorough knowledge of harmony is absolutely necessary to every musician, whether artist or amateur. The course of study covers a period of 40 weeks, including intervals, scales, chords, and chord progressions in close and open harmony, with practical work in harmonizing melodies, chants, and chorals; also, a study of works from the composer's point of view.

This course is required of all candidates for graduation.

ADVANCED THEORY.

This course will cover a period of 20 weeks, consisting of musical history, analysis, and form.

NORMAL TRAINING CLASS.

Advanced students of the piano department, who are preparing to teach, will be assigned a class in first-grade work. This will be under the direct supervision of the head of the department, that they may profit by the helpful suggestions which come only from experience. After the required amount of this normal training, classes will be assigned to a limited number, for which they will receive a small compensation. This will prove a most valuable feature to those completing the course, as it not only develops skill in teaching, but assists in paying expenses as well.

FREE CLASSES.

A Choral Class, free to all students, meets once a week for the practice of glees, anthems, choruses, and part songs.

Elementary Harmony and Theory.—The work given in these classes is very helpful to the student, and lays a good foundation for the higher study. Any student of the department may become a member without expense, except for text-book and necessary music paper. The course in theory includes acoustics, history of notation, and biography; that of harmony, rudiments of music, chord construction, and their proper connection.

An Orchestral Class and Mandolin and Banjo Club meet once a week, under the direction of the instructor, and are open to students sufficiently advanced. These afford a training both necessary and profitable to all who would lay the foundation for a broad and intelligent style of execution. These clubs frequently play at recitals and concerts, and have proved a successful and attractive feature of the work.

Classes in Ensemble are also free in conjunction with pupils of the pianoforte department.

RECITALS.

Recitals of vocal and instrumental music will take place every two weeks, in order that pupils may gain confidence and acquire the ability to perform in public.

At these, pupils from all grades will execute such pieces as shall be selected by their respective instructors.

CERTIFICATES.

Pupils completing the full course in piano, voice or violin, will receive the certificate of the department, attested by the President of the School.

A teacher's certificate will be given to those completing the fifth grade in piano, including harmony and theory.

PRIZE MEDALS.

The director of the department will award two medals this year: One to the pupil making the most rapid advancement in the piano department, open to competitors of all grades; one to pupil giving best rendition of solos in contest at close of the year's work.

LIBRARY PRIVILEGES.

Pupils of this department have access to the fine library of the State Normal School, in which a large number of books on musical subjects may be found, also several of the latest and best musical journals and magazines. Those who avail themselves of these unusual opportunities secure a literary culture which will make their own development more symmetrical.

For further information, address the director of the department.

PIANO PRACTICE.

Several pianos are at the disposal of students desiring to rent practice.

For the use of instruments, a nominal fee will be charged, which will be made known and hours assigned upon application to the director.

Stringed instruments can also be rented at reasonable rates.

TUITION FEES.

Piano, per term of 10 weeks, with Mrs. Boyle.....	$15 00
Piano, per term of 10 weeks, with assistant.....	10 00
Vocal culture, per term of 10 weeks, with the director.....	15 00
Harmony, per term of 10 weeks (advanced).....	10 00
Theory, per term of 10 weeks (advanced).....	5 00
Violin, per term of 10 weeks.....	15 00
Mandolin, guitar, or banjo, per term of 10 weeks.....	10 00

NOTE.—Full work in any branch calls for two lessons per week.

COURSE IN MODERN LANGUAGE.

Although a course in modern languages has not yet been provided as an integral part of the curriculum, successful classes are organized each year under a special teacher in

GERMAN AND FRENCH.

These courses consist of three years' work each. The method of instruction aims to give the students practical mastery of the language for conversational use and to put in his possession the most effective aid to the continued acquisition of knowledge both in literature and science.

Fees per term of 20 weeks, $5, payable in advance.

Shorthand.

Alumni Record.

The data given are the latest which we, after very great effort, are able to obtain. With few exceptions, we have been able to verify them to date. The friends would confer a favor by reporting to this office any inaccuracies which may be found, and by promptly notifying us, as changes in their own occupation or location may be made. It is our purpose to spare no pains to make the record of each year as nearly complete as possible, and we ask for the hearty co-operation of all. In writing us, be sure to name your class.

* Optional with School Law.

The Elementary Course consists of the first two and the fourth years' work of the English Course, with the privilege of substituting one year's work in Latin for general history and chemistry, and civil law as a substitute for child study or school law.

The Academic Course consists of the first two years' work in either course above outlined, physiology or psychology, and seven full-term subjects or their equivalents from the third year.

An advanced class in bookkeeping is formed each half term.

Classes in orthography occupy the time for general exercises indicated on the program three days each week. The subject is required in all courses.

Exercises in calisthenics throughout each course. During a part of the last year, students conduct classes in calisthenics under the supervision of the director of physical culture. Leaders of these classes meet weekly for special drill.

A special ten weeks' class in physiology is formed at the beginning and the second half of each term. It gives a thorough review of elementary physiology, and is open to all students. Grades for it are not recognized for the diploma, however.

The special class in methods of study and elementary psychology is intended for teachers who wish a review of the elements of mental science and particularly of didactics, as well as for students who may wish assistance in methods of study.

The rhetorical classes in declamation, essay, oration and theme meet one hour per week. The fourth term rhetorical class spends all available time possible in actual practice of parliamentary law, with examinations at the close of the term. The last year rhetorical classes alternate in physical culture, and special lectures on oratorical composition and elementary logic.

Teachers holding first- and second-grade certificates with 90 per cent. on history and geography will be admitted to five weeks' special classes in each subject in reviews and methods of teaching. Teachers holding first-grade county certificates or their equivalent, on approval of the head of the department of mathematics or of English, and students holding diplomas from bachelor's courses in approved universities and colleges, will be admitted to the five weeks' classes in methods in subjects above named in the last year of the course, each class to be taught by the head of the department to which the subject belongs.

Electives.—Students having completed a satisfactory two years' course in French or a three years' course in German will be permitted to substitute an equivalent in terms from either or both for the Latin required in the Latin course; the diploma for same to be designated as English, with German or French, or both, as the case may be. In electing subjects from the third year, candidates for graduation in either of the four years' courses will be required to elect at least one science from each term in said year. No other electives will be permitted, save as above provided, without a formal vote of the faculty; and such electives must be made from the third year, the petition in all cases to be made and acted upon before the subject is taken in class.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject with a standing of at least 80 per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course) in the Model Department, one hour per day for 40 weeks, or its equivalent.

Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Pupils who lack a record in any first-term subject are not admitted to classes in fourth-year subjects, except in methods, management, and civil law.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the schools of Kansas. A certificate of graduation is given on the completion of the Academic Course. It is not a certificate to teach. Those completing the first two years' work in any course, together with psychology or one full term of a strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year state certificate, good in any county in the state. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the regular professional branches are grouped in a single year.

All subjects except surveying, school law, and political economy are taught every term. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: Geography, 10 weeks; mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar, 10 weeks; reading and orthoepy, 10 weeks; United States history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department.

ALBERT TAYLOR HALL.

THE LYCEUM HALL.

No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test falling below 80 per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requirement for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department. Pupils in any of these classes pay a fee of $5 per term of 20 weeks, or $1.50 per month for less time.

List of Text-Books Used.

Algebra, Wells; Arithmetic, Ray; Astronomy, Young's Elements; Bookkeeping, The Complete Practical; Botany, Gray's Lessons Revised, and Field Book; Chemistry, Remsen; Constitution, Andrews; Drawing, Prang's American Text, Goodyear's History of Art; Elocution, Emerson; English Literature, Emery; Political Geography, Fisher's Essentials; Physical Geography, Eclectic; Geology, Le Conte's Compend; Geometry, Wentworth; Grammar, Reed & Kellogg; History, U. ## Postgraduate Course.

Any graduate in the Elementary, Latin or English course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of 80 per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4,000 to 5,000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to a special diploma from the Board of Regents. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the School. The diploma will be issued only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to a diploma, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into 20 lessons, requiring 10 hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examination are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

General Information.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the School are best set forth in the act of the legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School." "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual, and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition.
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self-government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a state.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view, always proves the most skillful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificates are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination. They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificates are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of 80 per cent. on examination in the common branches—arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, United States history, writing, and spelling—and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominative numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, state, and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes and their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed & Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our schoolbooks and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of $1 is charged for all such special examinations, except those given on Monday and Tuesday of the eleventh week of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

In addition to the foregoing requirements for admission to the Normal Department, candidates must subscribe to the following declaration and pledge:

"I hereby declare that my purpose in entering the State Normal School is to fit myself to teach in the schools of Kansas, and I solemnly agree, after leaving the same, to report to the President of the Faculty semi-annually, for three years, my location and occupation."

Those who prefer to pay the fee charged academic and special students, however, are excused from subscribing to the above. (See Fees.) Those who are taking the academic course and are enrolled in the academic department do not subscribe to the above. Students who prefer to pursue subjects in the course of study irregularly—that is, not in the order as prescribed—are, on payment of the fee as named, permitted to enroll as special students.

Teachers holding second-grade certificates will be admitted to subjects in the course which may be required for the first-grade certificate, if they desire, without being classified as irregular.

Civil law, methods, and school management may be taken by students anticipating examinations for certificates in which they are required, without being classed as irregular.

In each case where a member of the Faculty gives a written concession for a future examination, the student will be expected to meet the requirement at the time specified or become irregular.

Optionals must be taken in the order of the subjects for which they are substituted.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University, or the State Agricultural College, will, without examination, be credited with such class records as are 80 per cent. or above.

Graduates in the Arts Course, or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges, will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course here will include a review of the common branches.

See note at end of course of study concerning classes in reviews of methods in the common branches.

Final Examinations.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation after Wednesday of the eleventh week of the second term.

Fees.

No fees are charged students in the Normal Department. Students in the Academic Department and in the sub-normal classes are charged an incidental fee of $5 per term of 20 weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month. Special students are charged the same fees.

All students whose residences are outside of the state immediately preceding the time of entrance, are subject to the same fees as academic students.

The fee for either special course in kindergarten and primary methods is $5.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Mileage.

All students meeting the regular requirements for admission to the Normal Department, and those who are pursuing the two years' course in kindergarten, may have necessary railroad fare in excess of $3 refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students in attendance for the entire year.

Students in attendance for one full term of 20 weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded. Payment is made at the end of each term.

Mileage is paid only to students living more than 100 miles from Emporia and within the limits of the state of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.35 and $2.75 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3 to $3.25 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the state shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations, live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, capable of accommodating from two to four students, rent for from $2 to $4 per month. Furnished rooms rent for from $4 to $6 per month.

Secondhand Stores.

There are several good secondhand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell at a loss about equal to rent of furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of 20 Weeks.

Board and fuel .....	From $25 to $60
Books .....	From 5 to 8
Washing .....	From 6 to 10
Total * .....	From $36 to $78

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average yearly expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59. Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of 20 weeks, was one-half of these amounts.

Building, Apparatus, etc.

The building, recently enlarged, is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is nearly 300 feet long, and the entire building contains 77 rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. It is supplied with water from the city water-works, with gas, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The new assembly room is said to be the finest auditorium in the state. The laboratories for the departments of the natural sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing every year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

The library and reading room occupy a handsome suite of four rooms on the second floor.

The Music Department occupies four fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses seven pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accommodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses completer facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

* Students not regularly in Normal Department will add $5 for incidental fee.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The Regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make liberal provisions for their use by the pupil teachers.

A room in the basement is furnished with tables and tools, including turning lathe, scroll saw, etc., for work in manual training. The work in this room comprehends a variety of simple exercises in wood—slip work, joinery work, wood carving, etc. This addition to the appliances of the School is becoming a very popular feature, both as giving an acquaintance with the work in manual training which can be done in the public schools, and as furnishing opportunity for practice in the making of a variety of simple apparatus for illustration. A special teacher is employed for the coming year, and every effort will be made to increase the efficiency of this department.

The new gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells, and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow; also, a complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the library is located in a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor. It contains over 13,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art, and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents is proving a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imperative in the education of teachers than a good professional library. In selecting a school in which to secure an education, young men and women should not forget this feature of the State Normal School.

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the class room is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings in their large and tastefully furnished halls. The Alpha Society and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of six entertainments, reserved seats included, are $1 each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by Dr. Dwight L. Hillis, the Salisbury Orchestra Company, Rev.

Robert Nourse, the Sherwood Concert Company, Hon. George R. Wendling, Brooks and Macy, impersonators.

One of the pleasant features of the School is the frequent appearance on the platform, at the morning hour, of distinguished men and women in the various walks of life. Their informal talks are often most eloquent and helpful.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered by the Regents for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, and dramatic art; and by the Oratorical Association in oration.

Major Calvin Hood, of this city, kindly offers a cash prize of $30 for the contestant ranking highest in the March debate, and $10 for the second in rank. V. E. Creighton and L. O. Thoroman were the respective winners of these prizes in the last debate.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Inter-State Normal Oratorical League.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the March contest in debate.

The prize in last June debate was won by the Belles-lettres Society, represented by J. A. Cooley and J. H. Beach; in the last March debate, by the Lyceum Society, represented by V. E. Creighton and John S. Perry.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Nellie E. Hobbs.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Aura L. Fitch.

The prize in last contest in oration was won by F. M. Mahin.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any other institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admission and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high-school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 56.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited. The city is liberally supplied with churches, whose doors are ever wide open to all.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the state.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Monthly, which has a large circulation, and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables them to present certain phases of their work to the public. The subscription price is 50 cents per year.

A stock company of students publish the Students' Salute, a weekly paper full of Normal news and of items of general interest. Subscription, 50 cents per year. The Monthly and it combined, 65 cents per year.

An athletic association, composed of members of the Faculty and students, provides outdoor exercises and amusements in abundance, including baseball, lawn tennis, croquet, golf, bicycling, military drill, pentathlon exercises, etc. The field-day exercises, at which all these sections come together, is one of the great features of the year. The military company is supplied with arms by the state, and the weekly drills are very popular.

Summer Classes.

The summer classes formed for the past three years immediately after commencement have become very popular. The enrollment last summer reached a total of 240 students. Beginning June 11, 1897, the following-named teachers will conduct classes in their specialties: Professors Wilkinson, Kelly, Hill, Hoaglin, Chrisman, and Boyle, and Messrs. Payne, Ellsworth, and Elias. Address any one of them for terms and particulars.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behindhand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves to the inconvenience and expense of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

Read this catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1,608, and in the Model School 193. A limited number only is admitted to the Model School.

Five hundred students held teachers' certificates on entering; 129 held first-grade and 256 second-grade certificates; nearly 200 were graduates of high schools, academies, or colleges.

The class of 1897, 104 members, averages 25 years of age and nearly four years' teaching experience.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the School is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 88 in all, were represented during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children.

Outline of Instruction.

The following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for a second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Political Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and to enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc.; origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is also given. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Choral Class.—This class meets once a week. Students who are already readers of music can enter this class without charge and will find there an excellent opportunity for chorus training.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Staff notation and principles of tonic sol-fa, time names, intervals, triads, and chords of the dominant and other sevenths, in both major and minor modes, are taught. Short talks and lectures in history of notation and methods of teaching are given.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year each student prepares and presents, independent of any suggestion from anyone, some standard English or American oration. During the last 10 weeks, the class study a Shakesperian play, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first 10 weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body, and voice all cultured, and each responsive to the others.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the 20 weeks, eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural, artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte system. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be attained only by development of mind and soul. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, pupils discover the physiological and esthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation, our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academical algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Twenty weeks. To the oblique spherical triangle; the use of drawing instruments—the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; ability to teach the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for 10 weeks in actual field work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. The Eclectic text is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany.—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; the preparation of an herbarium of 50 plants; three hours of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one-half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of over 200 species of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, 50 typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blow-pipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, decomposing new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The pupils in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the pupils devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Physics.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Penmanship and Bookkeeping.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible and rapid writer, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. More than mere theoretical knowledge of the subject is required, and practice is made to conform to theory, regardless of the length of time it may take. The minimum time required for home practice is an average of 90 minutes per day. The home practice is upon a graded series of script plates, showing the relations of letters and their combinations; also, upon business forms, letter writing, etc. This work is submitted to the teacher daily during the last five weeks of the term, for his criticism. The student's grade is determined by the plates and forms which he may have had approved. While the forms of the letters are a modification of the Spencerian, the method depends upon movements as the means, and considers legible, rapid writing the end desired.

The following subjects are fully explained and illustrated: Methods of teaching writing in the grades; vertical versus slant writing, natural slant, size, spacing, shading, movement, technical analysis, speed, position, materials, etc., etc.

Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. Double-entry bookkeeping in all its various forms and modifications, is taught by the keeping of regular sets of books. The theory and relation of single and double entry are thoroughly taught, as well as the changing of a set of books from one system to the other. The student becomes familiar, by use, with business forms of all kinds, and the elements of commercial law. The "Complete Practical Bookkeeping" is the text-book used by the student as a guide in definitions and forms. The work includes also the principles of commercial law, and special sets of books involving partnership formations and settlements, shipments and consignments, special-column journal, etc., which are prepared by the teacher of the department. Ten weeks' additional advanced work is offered in a special class each term to those desiring it.

Drawing.

Three terms of 10 weeks each.

First Term.—Geometric problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, history of art, free-hand drawing from models and casts.

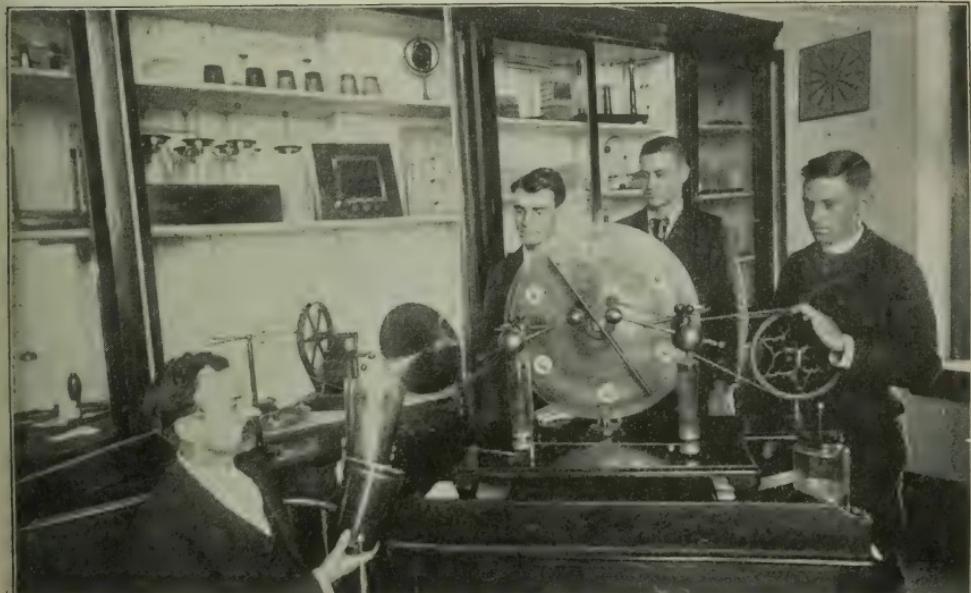

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the 30 weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in that direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it. A definite course is arranged for the 20 weeks, requiring the same time and preparation as for all other regular studies, and it can be substituted for any subject in the third year of the regular course.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more advanced work than can be taken up in the regular course of study is met, and several graduates of the School have availed themselves of the privilege during the present year.

History and Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basal principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work—a short, terse essay—must be then presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is two-fold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, mediaeval and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrews' Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the state governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text is introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, co-operative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of esthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secure the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's-eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special viewpoint of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics, it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—One hundred weeks required, 20 weeks additional offered in the four year Latin course. First year, 20 weeks: Fifty lessons Collar & Daniell's Beginner's Book. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercise in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Caesar, first or second book, Helvetian war, or Viri Romae. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Allen & Greenough's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Caesar's Gallic War. Four books completed. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the four against Catiline, and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course. Study of prose composition.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Aeneid of Vergil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology.—Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented by Dewey is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on the same subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education.—Ten weeks. With the 20 weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkranz is used as a text.

School Law.—The subject is prefaced by a thorough discussion of the endowment by the national government of all the schools in the states and territories; also, miscellaneous appropriations to the permanent school fund from colonial times to the present. The statute laws of the state relating to public education are studied under four heads—organization, management, classification, and support. A comparison of the laws of Kansas with those of other states is made, giving special reference to the above points and the relative degree of efficiency. The technicalities of law involved in the disposition of school lands, and the opinion on doubtful points of law given by the state superintendents and attorney-generals, are fully discussed. The laws of the more important European countries relating to the common schools are examined and compared with those of our own.

Along with this work, a few weeks are given to a study of Taylor's Outline of Civil Government in Kansas.

Child-Study.—This subject will be divided into three lines of work: Class-room, theme, and laboratory work. The work in the class-room will consist of a study of the literature of the subject. From this will be obtained a knowledge of the care, training, and treatment of children among ancient peoples and in mediaeval and earlier modern times; the condition of children among uncivilized and semicivilized peoples; the care and handling of abnormal children, and what has been learned about the normal child—physically, mentally, and morally. The theme work will consist of the preparation of a theme by each one engaging in the work, and will be upon some phase of child nature which has been gained wholly from personal observation and study. In the laboratory, a series of observations, measurements, and tests of children will be made. Child-study is elective with school law.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools, districts, sites, buildings, and their equipments, grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing co-operation of pupils, qualifications and duties of teachers, school boards and their duties, etc.

Methods: General.—Ten weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during 10 weeks, and the teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement the work of the book with from two to four lectures each on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge supplements the text with the discussion of the latest and most approved methods and theories in regard to the subjects discussed.

Methods: Primary.—Ten weeks. The suggestions of the teacher are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the children. The leading features of the special training for primary teachers as described below are given in as full an epitome as time will allow. The principles and methods which every teacher ought to understand, though he may not engage in the actual teaching of the primary grades, are given to all who take the life-certificate diploma of the School.

Training for Primary Teachers.—This course in primary methods based on the kindergarten is specially suited to graduates of high schools who expect to teach in the lower grades of city schools. Teachers now engaged in primary grades will find it desirable to take this work. The principles of the kindergarten are applicable in so many of their phases to the teaching of any grades above the primary that every teacher finds them valuable.

The course is designed to occupy the entire time for 20 weeks. A certificate is given at its completion signed by the head of the kindergarten department, the President of the institution, and the principal of the training department. This has no legal value as a license to teach in the public schools. The same qualifications are required for entering this course as for entering the Normal Department.

The work begins with observing teaching done by the head of the department and discovering the principles of psychology upon which it is based. Afterward the student teaches and the work is discussed at the daily meeting. The training of the student teachers in story-telling is a feature much emphasized. As far as possible, this course gives an understanding of the connected program arranged largely according to the seasons and the recurring changes of plant and animal life. The key-note for each day is given in the morning songs and talks, and the play period illustrates and explains how to make the kindergarten games helpful in all primary schools.

In the usual studies of the primary school, especial attention is devoted to preparation for reading, since the child must learn to read, that he may as soon as possible learn through reading. The first lessons are entirely from the blackboard, next comes the transition from script to print, after which the reading becomes a word, phrase, and thought study. The number work is begun with the very youngest classes, in connection with the study in color, form, and drawing, together with the different kindergarten occupations. The effort is made to lead the child to form the habit of correct and logical thinking. All the other subjects of primary schools are introduced with special reference to method.

The lectures on the gifts are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the youngest pupils. The first gift, the six soft balls, gives the three primary and the three secondary colors as a basis for the first lessons in form, color, and number, these lessons being given in connection with the games as well as in the lessons proper given to the children. The second gift, the wooden ball, cylinder, and cube, carries on the study of form, and of the different properties of matter, and gives the basis for the classification of objects. The early clay work is based on the forms of the second gift and illustrates the great principle underlying Froebel's work--the connection of opposites. The sphere and the cube are opposites; the cylinder is the mediator between them and possesses some qualities of each. This bringing together of the unlike for harmonious growth is illustrated in the organization of this department, which gives not the pure kindergarten alone, but pure primary also, the transition class being taken from kindergarten to primary by such easy steps that there is no abrupt change from concrete to abstract work. Particular attention is devoted to the matter of songs and games and their educative influences, as they, more than any other feature of Froebel's work, embody the great underlying principle of all education. Music in its educative value has an important place in this work. A feature in this line is the interpretation of piano music—"songs without words."

The study of the succeeding gifts assists the child in the analysis of the parts of the second gift. Along with this analysis, he makes further abstractions in number, in the study of the solid and its subdivisions, and the study of all the different surfaces, angles and lines presented. This work is done in connection with the periods devoted by the little ones to invention by the use of building blocks and other material. The occupations of the kindergarten, sewing, weaving, pasting, clay modeling, paper cutting and folding, are used not only with the kindergarten pupils but with the primary classes as well. The effort is to show the student teacher why and how these occupations are valuable for use in common schools, since kindergarten gifts and occupations are no better and no worse for study and for busy work than some other possible means of employment unless the teacher understands the philosophy underlying their use. In addition to this means of occupation, busy work growing naturally out of the usual primary studies is introduced, either to illustrate a previous recitation or to prepare for the next lesson.

An advanced course in kindergarten proper is provided for those who wise to make it a specialty.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do 45 minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the everyday work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticize the work of pupil teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Roberts' manual as authority. The oration classes take special drill for 20 weeks in the art of expression, and 10 weeks to lectures and criticism. Ten lectures on elementary logic are given the class in oration during the last term. In all this work, a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about 15 minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, bean bags, and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music. The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils having requisite records in the physical training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium. The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

Athletics.—Every facility is offered for outdoor exercise, under the general supervision of the Director in Training and the special supervision of members of the Faculty who may be personally interested. The work is recognized as elective with gymnastics and calisthenics, under certain limitations, particularly the military drill, which is systematically conducted during the entire year. Eighty stands of arms, furnished by the state, are at the disposal of the battalion.

SPECIAL COURSES.

Vocal and Instrumental Music.

The Department of Music in connection with the State Normal School is under the direction of Prof. Charles A. Boyle. The object of the department is to furnish a course of study which shall not only enable the students to perform selections of either instrumental or vocal music for mere entertainment and pleasure, but to lay the foundation so broad and deep that they shall become not only good performers but thorough musicians.

COURSES OF STUDY.

The department offers thorough and systematic instruction in piano, voice, violin, viola, banjo, mandolin, guitar, harmony, theory, sight-singing, chorus, and orchestra.

Courses of study for graduation in piano, voice, and violin have been selected and arranged, following the best recognized methods of the leading schools and conservatories. All candidates for graduation are required to complete the courses in advanced harmony and theory.

PIANOFORTE.

The course of study for the pianoforte has recently been revised and enlarged. It includes all grades of exercises and compositions required for the most systematic development in execution and interpretation, both for teaching and artistic performance. Especial attention is paid to the development of a musical touch, a refined and intelligent style of playing. It will be the effort on the part of the teacher to adapt the instruction to the personal needs of the student.

Beginners and those not far advanced are especially welcome, as their progress under the methods used will be steady and rapid. The custom of beginning with untrained and inexperienced teachers is believed by many to be economy, while in reality it is much more expensive; for bad habits often are formed which necessarily retard one's progress, costing both time and money to eradicate.

VOCAL CULTURE.

The voice is treated and vocalized in such a manner as to make purity and beauty of tone the especial feature. Great care is taken to insure pure vowel sounds, so that the pupil shows no unreasonable weakness when using any word occurring in a song; good enunciation being the advantageous result of such training.

VIOLIN AND STRINGED INSTRUMENTS.

This course includes technical studies and exercises from the best modern works. In each grade such solos and pieces are given as will readily develop musical taste, style, and expression.

Special attention is given to sight-reading.

The Orchestra and Mandolin and Banjo Club are open to all pupils sufficiently advanced, and prove very attractive and beneficial to the members.

Classes of two for beginners in violin will be formed at reduced rates.

ADVANCED HARMONY.

A thorough knowledge of harmony is absolutely necessary to every musician, whether artist or amateur. The course of study covers a period of 40 weeks, including intervals, scales, chords, and chord progressions in close and open harmony, with practical work in harmonizing melodies, chants, and chorals; also, a study of works from the composer's point of view.

This course is required of all candidates for graduation.

ADVANCED THEORY.

This course will cover a period of 20 weeks, consisting of musical history, analysis, and form.

NORMAL TRAINING CLASS.

Advanced students of the piano department, who are preparing to teach, will be assigned a class in first-grade work. This will be under the direct supervision of the head of the department, that they may profit by the helpful suggestions which come only from experience. After the required amount of this normal training, classes will be assigned to a limited number, for which they will receive a small compensation. This will prove a most valuable feature to those completing the course, as it not only develops skill in teaching, but assists in paying expenses as well.

FREE CLASSES.

A Choral Class, free to all students, meets once a week for the practice of glees, anthems, choruses, and part songs.

Elementary Harmony and Theory.—The work given in these classes is very helpful to the student, and lays a good foundation for the higher study. Any student of the department may become a member without expense, except for text-book and necessary music paper. The course in theory includes acoustics, history of notation, and biography; that of harmony, rudiments of music, chord construction, and their proper connection.

An Orchestral Class and Mandolin and Banjo Club meet once a week, under the direction of the instructor, and are open to students sufficiently advanced. These afford a training both necessary and profitable to all who would lay the foundation for a broad and intelligent style of execution. These clubs frequently play at recitals and concerts, and have proved a successful and attractive feature of the work.

Classes in Ensemble are also free in conjunction with pupils of the pianoforte department.

RECITALS.

Recitals of vocal and instrumental music will take place every two weeks, in order that pupils may gain confidence and acquire the ability to perform in public.

At these, pupils from all grades will execute such pieces as shall be selected by their respective instructors.

Playing at sight, memorizing and performance in recitals are required in all grades.

CERTIFICATES.

Pupils completing the full course in piano, voice, or violin will receive the certificate of the department, attested by the President of the School.

A teacher's certificate will be given to those completing the fifth grade in piano, including harmony and theory.

PRIZE MEDALS.

The director of the department will award two medals this year: One to the pupil making the most rapid advancement in the piano department, open to competitors of all grades; one to pupil giving best rendition of solos in contest at close of the year's work.

LIBRARY PRIVILEGES.

Pupils of this department have access to the fine library of the State Normal School, in which a large number of books on musical subjects may be found, also several of the latest and best musical journals and magazines. Those who avail themselves of these unusual opportunities secure a literary culture which will make their own development more symmetrical.

PIANO PRACTICE.

Several pianos are at the disposal of students desiring to rent practice.

For the use of instruments, a nominal fee will be charged, which will be made known, and hours assigned upon application to the director.

Stringed instruments can also be rented at reasonable rates.

TUITION FEES.

COURSE IN MODERN LANGUAGES.

Although a course in modern languages has not yet been provided as an integral part of the curriculum, successful classes are organized each year under a special teacher in German and French.

These courses consist of three years' work in German and two years' work in French.

Fees, per term of 20 weeks, $5, payable in advance.

GERMAN.

The aim of this course is twofold: First, to fit the student for teaching German in the high school; second, to give him practical mastery of the language for conversational use. For the latter purpose, a German club has been organized which meets once a week, and which each student in German is expected to enter.

Students having finished their work satisfactorily can enter the Kansas University without examination in this branch.

Alumni Record.

The data given are the latest which we, after very great effort, are able to obtain. With few exceptions, we have been able to verify them to date. The friends would confer a favor by reporting to this office any inaccuracies which may be found, and by promptly notifying us, as changes in their own occupation or location may be made. It is our purpose to spare no pains to make the record of each year as nearly complete as possible, and we ask for the hearty co-operation of all. In writing us, be sure to name your class.

* Optional with School Law.

The Elementary Course consists of the first two and the fourth years' work of the English Course, with the privilege of substituting one year's work in Latin for general history and chemistry, and civil law as a substitute for child study or school law.

The Academic Course consists of the first two years' work in either course above outlined, physiology or psychology, and seven full-term subjects or their equivalents from the third year.

An advanced class in bookkeeping is formed each half term.

Classes in orthography occupy the time for general exercises indicated on the program three days each week. The subject is required in all courses.

Exercises in calisthenics throughout each course. During a part of the last year, students conduct classes in calisthenics under the supervision of the director of physical culture. Leaders of these classes meet weekly for special drill.

A special ten weeks' class in physiology is formed at the beginning and the second half of each term. It gives a thorough review of elementary physiology, and is open to all students. Grades for it are not recognized for the diploma, however.

The special class in methods of study and elementary psychology is intended for teachers who wish a review of the elements of mental science, and particularly of didactics, as well as for students who may wish assistance in methods of study.

The rhetorical classes in declamation, essay, oration and theme meet one hour per week. The fourth-term rhetorical class spends all available time possible in actual practice of parliamentary law, with examinations at the close of the term. The last year rhetorical classes alternate in physical culture, and special lectures on oratorical composition and elementary logic.

Teachers holding first- or second-grade certificates with ninety per cent. on history and geography will be admitted to five weeks' special classes in each subject in reviews and methods of teaching. Teachers holding first-grade county certificates or their equivalent, on approval of the head of the department of mathematics or of English, and students holding diplomas from bachelor's course in approved universities and colleges, will be admitted to the five weeks' classes in methods in subjects above named in the last year of the course, each class to be taught by the head of the department to which the subject belongs.

Electives.—Students having completed a satisfactory two years' course in French or a three years' course in German will be permitted to substitute an equivalent in terms from either or both for the Latin required in the Latin course; the diploma for same to be designated as English, with German or French, or both, as the case may be. In electing subjects from the third year, candidates for graduation in either of the four years' courses will be required to elect at least one science from each term in said year. No other electives will be permitted, save as above provided, without a formal vote of the faculty; and such electives must be made from the third year, the petition in all cases to be made and acted upon before the subject is taken in class.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject with a standing of at least eighty per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course) in the Model Department, one hour per day for forty weeks, or its equivalent.

Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Pupils who lack a record in any first-term subject are not admitted to classes in fourth-year subjects, except in methods, management, and civil law.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the schools of Kansas. A certificate of graduation is given on the completion of the Academic Course. It is not a certificate to teach. Those completing the first two years' work in any course, together with psychology or one full term of a strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year state certificate, good in any county in the state. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the regular professional branches are grouped in a single year.

All subjects except surveying, school law, and political economy, are taught every term. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: Geography, 10 weeks; mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar, 10 weeks; reading and orthoepy, 10 weeks; United States history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department. No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test.

falling below eighty per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requirement for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department. Pupils in any of these classes pay a fee of $5 per term of 20 weeks, or $1.50 per month for less time.

In case of necessity the Sub-Normal classes may be assigned to the afternoon or to pupil teachers from the training classes.

List of Text-Books Used.

Algebra, Wells; Arithmetic, American Comprehensive; Astronomy, Young's Elements; Bookkeeping, Stevenson's Introductory, The Complete Practical; Botany, Bergen's Elements and Gray's Field, Forest and Garden Botany; Chemistry, Remsen; Constitution, Andrews; Drawing, Prang's American Text, Goodyear's History of Art; Elocution, Emerson; English Literature, Pancoast; American Literature, Mathews; Political Geography, Fisher's Essentials; Physical Geography, Tarr's Elements; Geology, Le Conte's Elements; Geometry, Wentworth; Grammar, Reed and Kellogg; History, U. ## Postgraduate Course.

Any graduate in the Latin or English course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of eighty per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4,000 to 5,000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to the degree of bachelor of pedagogy. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the School. The degree will be awarded only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to the degree, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into twenty lessons, requiring ten hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examinations are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the School are best set forth in the act of the legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School." "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual, and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition.
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self-government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a state.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view, always proves the most skilful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificates are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination. They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificates are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of eighty per cent. on examination in the common branches—arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, United States history, writing, and spelling—and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominate numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, state, and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes and their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed and Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our schoolbooks and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of one dollar is charged for all such special examinations, except those given on Monday and Tuesday of the eleventh week of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

In addition to the foregoing requirements for admission to the Normal Department, candidates must subscribe to the following declaration and pledge:

"I hereby declare that my purpose in entering the State Normal School is to fit myself to teach in the schools of Kansas, and I solemnly agree, after leaving the same, to report to the President of the Faculty semi-annually, for three years, my location and occupation."

Those who prefer to pay the fee charged academic and special students, however, are excused from subscribing to the above. (See Fees.) Those who are taking the Academic Course and are enrolled in the Academic Department do not subscribe to the above. Students who prefer to pursue subjects in the course of study irregularly—that is, not in the order as prescribed—are, on payment of the fee as named, permitted to enroll as special students.

Teachers holding second-grade certificates will be admitted to subjects in the course which may be required for the first-grade certificate, if they desire, without being classified as irregular.

Civil law, methods, and school management may be taken by students anticipating examinations for certificates in which they are required, without being classed as irregular.

In each case where a member of the Faculty gives a written concession for a future examination, the student will be expected to meet the requirement at the time specified or become irregular.

Optionals must be taken in the order of the subjects for which they are substituted.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University, or the State Agricultural College, will, without examination, be credited with such class records as are eighty per cent. or above.

Graduates in the arts course, or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges, will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course here will include a review of the common branches.

See note at end of course of study concerning classes in reviews of methods in the common branches.

Final Examinations.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation after Wednesday of the eleventh week of the second term.

Fees.

No fees are charged students in the Normal Department. Students in the Academic Department and in the Sub-Normal classes are charged an incidental fee of five dollars per term of twenty weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month. Special students are charged the same fees.

All students whose residences are outside of the state immediately preceding the time of entrance are subject to the same fees as academic students.

The fee for the special course in kindergarten and primary methods is five dollars.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Mileage.

All students meeting the regular requirements for admission to the Normal Department may have necessary railroad fare in excess of three dollars refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students in attendance for the entire year.

Students in attendance for one full term of twenty weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded. Payment is made at the end of each term.

Mileage is paid only to students living more than 100 miles from Emporia and within the limits of the state of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.35 and $2.75 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3 to $3.25 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the state shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations, live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, accommodating from two to four students, rent for from two to four dollars per month. Furnished rooms rent for from four to six dollars per month.

Second-hand Stores.

There are several good second-hand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell at a loss about equal to rent of furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of Twenty Weeks.

Board and fuel .....	From $25 to $60
Books.....	From 5 to 8
Washing .....	From 6 to 10
Total.....	From $36 to $78
Students not regularly in Normal Department will add $5 for incidental fee.

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average yearly expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59. Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of twenty weeks, was one-half of these amounts.

Building, Apparatus, etc.

The building, recently enlarged, is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is nearly 300 feet long, and the entire building contains seventy-seven rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. It is supplied with water from the city water-works, with gas, electric light, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The new assembly-room is said to be the finest auditorium in the state. The laboratories for the departments of the natural sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing every year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

The library and reading-room occupy a handsome suite of four rooms on the second floor.

The Music Department occupies eight fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses thirteen pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accommodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses completer facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make liberal provisions for their use by the pupil teachers.

A room in the basement is furnished with tables and tools, including turning-lathe, scroll saw, etc., for work in manual training. The work in this room comprehends a variety of simple exercises in wood—slip work, joinery work, wood carving, etc. This addition to the appliances of the School is becoming a very popular feature, both as giving an acquaintance with the work in manual training which can be done in the public schools, and as furnishing opportunity for practice in the making of a variety of simple apparatus for illustration. A special teacher is employed for the coming year, and every effort will be made to increase the efficiency of this department.

The new gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells, and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow; also, a complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the library is located in a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor. It contains over 13,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art, and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents is proving a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imperative in the education of teachers than a good professional library. In selecting a school in which to secure an education, young men and women should not forget this feature of the State Normal School.

Courses in Reading.

The following courses are outlined for general reading during attendance at the School. Pupils are urged to select some one of the courses named for each term and plan to read at least five out of the eight books named in the course.

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the classroom is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings in their large and tastefully furnished halls. The Alpha Society and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of six entertainments, reserved seats included, are one dollar each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by Bernard Listemann Quartette, Miss Katherine Oliver, Robert J. Burdette, Prof. S. H. Clark, Welsh Prize Singers, and Rev. Thomas Dixon, jr.

One of the pleasant features of the School is the frequent appearance on the platform, at the morning hour, of distinguished men and women in the various walks of life. Their informal talks are often most eloquent and helpful.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered by the Regents for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, and dramatic art; and by the Oratorical Association in oration.

Major Calvin Hood, of this city, kindly offers a cash prize of thirty dollars for the contestant ranking highest in the March debate, and ten dollars for the second in rank. A. M. Thoroman and G. A. Brown were the respective winners of these prizes in the last debate.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Inter-State Normal Oratorical League.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the March contest in debate.

The prize in last June debate was won by the Literati Society, represented by G. F. Gorow and Sadie Goodwin; in the last March debate, by the Philomathian Society, represented by A. M. Thoroman and W. L. Dunbar.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Bessie A. Schriver.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Maud Walter.

The prize in last contest in oration was won by A. T. St. Clair.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any other institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admission and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high-school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 61.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited. The city is liberally supplied with churches, whose doors are ever wide open to all.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the state.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Monthly, which has a large circulation, and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables them to present certain phases of their work to the public. The subscription price is fifty cents per year.

A stock company of students of the Literati Society publishes the Oven, a semi-monthly paper full of Normal news and items of general interest. Subscription, fifty cents per year.

An athletic association, composed of members of the Faculty and students, provides outdoor exercises and amusements in abundance, including base ball, lawn tennis, croquet, golf, bicycling, military drill, pentathlon exercises, etc. The field-day exercises, at which all these sections come together, is one of the great features of the year.

Summer Classes.

The summer classes formed for the past seven years immediately after commencement have become very popular. The enrollment last summer reached a total of 188 students. Beginning June 17, 1898, the following-named teachers will conduct classes in their specialties: Professors Hill, Hoaglin, Chrisman, Boyle, Wooster, Whitney, Payne, and Ellsworth, and Mr. Elias. Address any one of them for terms and particulars.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behind-hand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves to the inconvenience and expense of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

Read this catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1759, and in the Model School 197. A limited number only is admitted to the Model School.

Seven hundred and twenty-five students held teachers' certificates on entering; 161 held first-grade and 349 second-grade certificates; nearly 215 were graduates of high schools, academies, or colleges.

The class of 1898, 126 members, averages 25 years of age and over three years' teaching experience.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the School is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 93 in all, were represented during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children.

The following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for a second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Political Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and to enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc.; origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson ; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is also given. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Choral Class.—This class meets once a week. Students who are already readers of music can enter this class without charge, and will find there an excellent opportunity for chorus training.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Staff notation and principles of tonic sol-fa, time names, intervals, triads, and chords of the dominant and other sevenths, in both major and minor modes, are taught. Short talks and lectures in history of notation and methods of teaching are given.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year each student prepares and presents, independent of suggestion from any one, some standard English or American oration. During the last ten weeks, the class study a Shakespearian play, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first ten weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body, and voice—all cultured, and each responsive to the other.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the twenty weeks eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural, artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte system. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be attained only by development of mind and soul. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, they discover the physiological and æsthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation;—our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academical algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Ten weeks to trigonometry; ten weeks to surveying. Trigonometry is studied as far as the oblique spherical triangle; it may be taken independently of surveying. Surveying embraces the use of drawing instruments—the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for ten weeks in actual field work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. Tarr's Elements is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany.—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; special study of fifty plants; three hours of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one-half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, fifty typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blow-pipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, examining new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The students in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the students devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Physics.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Bookkeeping and Penmanship.

Introductory Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. The text-book adopted for use in the public schools of the state—Stevenson's Introductory Bookkeeping—is used as a text, and special attention is given to methods of teaching the subject. The relation of account keeping to the affairs of daily life and the practical economics of thrift, economy and systematic classification, are forced into the thought and experience of the student. It is believed that familiarity with business forms, the laws of business and methods of keeping books in various lines of business will make the teacher an intelligent factor in the business, as well as the scholastic life of the community.

Advanced Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. A fair library of texts on advanced accounting, commercial law and practical economics makes it possible for the students in this subject to follow the topical method of study. "Actual business from the start" is a feature of this class, and the student learns to invest, borrow, and lend from actual experience. The bookkeeping of banks, corporations, partnerships, and stock companies receives attention as well as the law and customs pertaining thereto. This work is optional, yet the number taking it each term is steadily increasing.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible, rapid writer, in fact as well as theory, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. Much emphasis is placed upon the acquirement of involuntary control in writing, as evidenced in speed and ease of action, a correct and hygienic position, and a free movement. The following styles, resulting from changes in position and movement and slight modifications in forms, are mastered by all students: (1) Normal standard, natural slant. (2) Normal standard, perpendicular. (3) Roudebush rapid vertical. (4) Normal standard, double-spaced. (5) Normal backhand. (6) Normal standard, coarse pen. (7) Normal standard, compact. (8) Normal standard, business hand. (9) Normal standard, abbreviated. (10) Package printing style. The effect of learning all these styles is to strengthen the student's individual style, prepare him to teach all of them, and to understand from experience their various points of excellence and defects.

The application of writing to business forms, correspondence, essays, examination papers, etc., receives much attention, and the student is made familiar with methods of teaching and the various theories regarding movement, position, style of letters, etc. The well-written page is the end desired, and it is found that this is secured without technical analysis, extremely accurate forms, or any fixed slant.

The department has collected the copy-books of nearly every country on the globe, and also has many large albums containing autograph letters of the great and good people of the world. These are of much value in awakening interest and thought.

Shorthand and Typewriting.

This work is under the direction of the department of bookkeeping and penmanship. The Benn Pitman, or American system of shorthand is taught. Students who have finished the work in shorthand, together with the typewriting, have secured excellent positions. The shorthand is of especial value to students in the advanced classes in the institution. The fee charged for these subjects is very small: Shorthand, five dollars for thirty lessons; typewriting, three dollars for thirty hours' practice, with instruction.

Drawing.

First three terms, ten weeks each.

First Term.—Geometric problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, elements of figure drawing and composition; pen, charcoal and wash drawings.

Fourth Term.—Twenty weeks. History of art, water color, wood carving, figure drawing and composition, plaster casting.

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the thirty weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in that direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more advanced work than can be taken up in the regular course of study is met, and several graduates of the School have availed themselves of the privilege during the present year.

History and Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basal principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work—a short, terse essay—must be then presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is two-fold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, medieval and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrews' Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the state governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text is introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, coöperative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of æsthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secures the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's-eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special viewpoint of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics, it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—One hundred weeks required, twenty weeks additional offered in the Latin course. First year, twenty weeks: Fifty lessons Collar and Daniell's Beginner's Book. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercise in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Cæsar, first or second book, Helvetian war, or Viri Romæ. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Allen and Greenough's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Cæsar's Gallic War. Four books completed. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the four against Catiline, and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course. Study of prose composition.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid of Vergil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology.—Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented by Dewey is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on this subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education.—Ten weeks. With the twenty weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkranz is used as a text.

School Law.—The subject is prefaced by a thorough discussion of the endowment by the national government of all the schools in the states and territories; also, miscellaneous appropriations to the permanent school fund from colonial times to the present. The statute laws of the state relating to public education are studied under four heads—organization, management, classification, and support. A comparison of the laws of Kansas with those of other states is made, giving special reference to the above points and the relative degree of efficiency. The technicalities of law involved in the disposition of school lands, and the opinion on doubtful points of law given by the state superintendents and attorneys-general, are fully discussed. The laws of the more important European countries relating to the common schools are examined and compared with those of our own.

Along with this work, a few weeks are given to a study of Taylor's Outline of Civil Government in Kansas.

Child-Study.—This subject is divided into three lines of work: Class-room, theme, and laboratory work. The work in the class-room consists of a study of the literature of the subject. From this is obtained a knowledge of the care, training, and treatment of children among ancient peoples and in medieval and earlier modern times; the condition of children among uncivilized and semicivilized peoples; the care and handling of abnormal children, and what has been learned about the normal child—physically, mentally, and morally. The theme work consists of the preparation of a theme by each one engaging in the work, and will be upon some phase of child nature which has been gained wholly from personal observation and study. In the laboratory, a series of observations, measurements, and tests of children will be made. Child-study is elective with school law.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools, districts, sites, buildings and their equipments, grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing coöperation of pupils, qualifications and duties of teachers, school boards and their duties, city school systems, most approved method of city school organization, etc.

Methods : General.—Ten weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during ten weeks, and the different teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement their work with lectures on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge of general methods supplements the text with discussion of the latest and most approved methods of teaching the different subjects. See page 53 for information concerning special classes in reviews and methods in the common branches.

Methods: Primary.—Ten weeks. The suggestions of the teacher are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the children. The leading features of the special training for primary teachers as described below are given in as full an epitome as time will allow. The principles and methods which every teacher ought to understand, though he may not engage in the actual teaching of the primary grades, are given to all who take the life certificate diploma of the School.

Training for Primary Teachers.—This course in primary methods based on the kindergarten is specially suited to graduates of high schools who expect to teach in the lower grades of city schools. Teachers now engaged in primary grades will find it desirable to take this work. The principles of the kindergarten are applicable in so many of their phases to the teaching of grades above the primary that every teacher finds them valuable.

The course is designed to occupy the entire time for twenty weeks. A certificate is given at its completion signed by the head of the kindergarten department, the President of the institution, and the principal of the training department. This has no legal value as a license to teach in the public schools. The same qualifications are required for entering this course as for entering the Normal Department.

The work begins with observing teaching done by the head of the department and discovering the principles of psychology upon which it is based. Afterward the student teaches and the work is discussed at the daily meeting. The training of the student teachers in story-telling is a feature much emphasized. As far as possible, this course gives an understanding of the connected program arranged largely according to the seasons and the recurring changes of plant and animal life. The key-note for each day is given in the morning songs and talks, and the play period illustrates and explains how to make the kindergarten games helpful in all primary schools.

In the usual studies of the primary school, especial attention is devoted to preparation for reading, since the child must learn to read, that he may as soon as possible learn through reading. The first lessons are entirely from the blackboard, next comes the transition from script to print, after which the reading becomes a word, phrase, and thought study. The number work is begun with the very youngest classes, in connection with the study in color, form, and drawing, together with the different kindergarten occupations. The effort is made to lead the child to form the habit of correct and logical thinking. All the other subjects of primary schools are introduced with special reference to method.

The lectures on the gifts are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the youngest pupils. The first gift, the six soft balls, gives the three primary and the three secondary colors as a basis for the first lessons in form, color, and number, these lessons being given in connection with the games as well as in the lessons proper given to the children. The second gift, the wooden ball, cylinder, and cube, carries on the study of form, and of the different properties of matter, and gives the basis for the classification of objects. The early clay work is based on the forms of the second gift and illustrates the great principle underlying Froebel's work—the connection of opposites. The sphere and the cube are opposites; the cylinder is the mediator between them and possesses some qualities of each. This bringing together of the unlike for harmonious growth is illustrated in the organization of this department, which gives not the pure kindergarten alone, but pure primary also, the transition class being taken from kindergarten to primary by such easy steps that there is no abrupt change from concrete to abstract work. Particular attention is devoted to the matter of songs and games and their educative influences, as they, more than any other feature of Froebel's work, embody the great underlying principle of all education. Music in its educative value has an important place in this work. A feature in this line is the interpretation of piano music—"songs without words."

The study of the succeeding gifts assists the child in the analysis of the parts of the second gift. Along with this analysis, he makes further abstractions in number, in the study of the solid and its subdivisions, and the study of all the different surfaces, angles and lines presented. This work is done in connection with the periods devoted by the little ones to invention by the use of building blocks and other material. The occupations of the kindergarten, sewing, weaving, pasting, clay modeling, paper cutting and folding, are used not only with the kindergarten pupils but with the primary classes as well. The effort is to show the student teacher why and how these occupations are valuable for use in common schools, since kindergarten gifts and occupations are no better and no worse for study and for busy work than some other possible means of employment unless the teacher understands the philosophy underlying their use. In addition to this means of occupation, busy work growing naturally out of the usual primary studies is introduced, either to illustrate a previous recitation or to prepare for the next lesson.

An advanced course in kindergarten proper is provided for those who wish to make it a specialty.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do forty-five minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the every day work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticize the work of pupil teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Robert's manual as authority. The oration classes take special drill for twenty weeks in the art of expression, and ten weeks in lectures and criticism. Ten lectures on elementary logic are given the class in oration during the last term. In all this work, a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about fifteen minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music.

Classes in special work meet two afternoons per week; these classes are open to students whose physical condition warrants vigorous exercise. The members are required to wear the conventional gymnasium suit.

Physical training has been made a department in the School and the work placed in charge of an expert teacher, who devotes her entire time to it.

Lectures on physical culture and related subjects are given the senior classes once per week and are required for graduation.

The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils filing requisite records in the physical training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium.

Athletics.—Every facility is offered for outdoor exercise, under the general supervision of the Director in Training and the special supervision of members of the Faculty who may be personally interested. The work is recognized as elective with gymnastics and calisthenics, under certain limitations, particularly the military drill, which is systematically conducted during the entire year.

Department of Music.

This department offers superior advantages to those interested in the study of music. The courses provide instruction in everything that forms an essential part of a musical education—technical and theoretical, as well as vocal and instrumental.

Special features are: Children's course, preparatory course, advanced course, musical history and biography, musical form and analysis, ensemble classes, mandolin orchestra.

Free advantages are: Pupils' recitals, lessons in musical history, lessons in biography, classes in sight-reading, time keeping, ear training, ensemble classes, library privileges, chorus, orchestra.

Pianoforte—Children's Course.—This is a course for fundamental training, and has been planned with special reference to children from six to twelve years of age. The work is simple, interesting, and varied, while such is its thoroughness that the children who have worked through it have already begun to be musicians. On completion of this, they enter the regular preparatory course. The children's work is in charge of Miss E. Anna Stone, under the direct supervision of the head of the department.

Preparatory or Beginners' Course.—This course embraces the work of the first three grades, and is provided for those who have had little or no previous study.

Advanced Course.—On entering this course pupils may study with a view to public performance or training for teachers, the instruction being varied according to individual needs or desires. No definite time can be fixed for the completion of any course, as some will advance more rapidly than others; progress depending upon the pupil's natural ability and time devoted to practice. On completion of any one of these courses a certificate is awarded showing the standard reached by the student, and proper credits given, should he decide at any time to continue his study.

Voice Culture.—Each voice is treated with special reference to the individual needs in tone production, quality, and the necessary and proper breath support. Such exercises, studies, and songs are used as will make the voice flexible, strong, and extended, after which phrasing and expression will be developed and the pupil familiarized with different styles, thus preparing the voice for parlor, church, or concert singing.

Violin.—The State Normal School has recently added to the faculty of the Music Department Mr. Edgar B. Gordon, a young man of unusual ability as a teacher. Mr. Gordon has had three years of training with S. E. Jacobsohn, the most celebrated teacher of violin in America. He possesses a sincere love for the art and has had a varied experience in teaching—these place him among the most successful teachers of the violin in the West. The instruction in violin will be so adapted that it will meet the individual requirements of the pupils. Tone, technic and style are made important factors, and every means used to make the pupil a good, intelligent performer and musician.

Mandolin, Guitar.—The course of study, besides containing such exercises as are needed to develop the technic, includes pleasing solos of various grades.

Harmony.—One year's work in harmony is required for the course in voice and violin. In addition to the year's work in harmony, a year's work in counterpoint and composition is required of all candidates for graduation in piano.

Musical History and Biography.—Musical history begins with the music of the ancient oriental nations and notes its progress and development through the middle ages and up to the present. Special attention is given to history of pianoforte and instrumental music since 1700, giving a clear exposition of the different epochs, and of the lives and works of the great composers.

Recitals and Concerts.—In order that the students may have an opportunity to increase their knowledge of music and musical literature, and to afford them assistance in acquiring confidence and self-control, frequent recitals and special concerts are given. The great benefit derived from attending and participating in such concerts and recitals, in presence of large audiences, cannot be overestimated. Albert Taylor Hall, with a seating capacity of more than one thousand, gives inestimable advantages for such concerts.

A certificate of proficiency in piano is awarded to students completing fifth grade, including one year each of harmony, musical history, and form.

Prize Medals.—Three medals are given. One to pupil giving best rendition of solo in advanced piano, one in violin, and one in children's piano class in contest at the close of the year's work.

Several pianos and claviers are at the disposal of students desiring to rent for practice.

The fees for a term of ten weeks, two lessons per week, are:

Piano, varying according to grade and teacher.....	$5 to $15 00
Voice.....	15 00
Violin .....	15 00
Mandolin or guitar.....	10 00
Harmony .....	10 00
Musical form .....	5 00

Course in Modern Languages.

Although a course in modern languages has not yet been provided as an integral part of the curriculum, successful classes are organized each year under an excellent teacher in German and French.

These courses consist of three years' work in German and two years' work in French. The full work in either course may be substituted for Latin in the Latin course. The diploma offered is the English, with German or French.

Fees, per term of twenty weeks, five dollars, payable in advance.

German.—The aim of this course is twofold: First, to fit the student for teaching German in the high school; second, to give him practical mastery of the language for conversational use. For the latter purpose, a German club has been organized which meets once a week, and which each student in German is expected to enter.

Students having finished their work satisfactorily can enter the Kansas University without examination in this branch.

First Term.—Elementary Grammar (Otis). Declension of adjectives and nouns; conjugation of verbs, both regular and irregular; order of sentences; translation of simple sentences, oral and written, of German into English and English into German; thorough mastery of German letters and pronunciation.

Second Term.—Advanced Grammar. Reader (Brandt), with careful attention to points of grammar and syntax; sight-reading; exercises in composition and dictation.

Third Term.—Wilhelm Tell, Das Lied von der Glocke. Review of grammar, based on Whitney, Brandt, and others; attention to etymology and idioms.

Fourth Term.—Three selections from the following: Karl der Grosse, Burg Neideck, Die Journalisten, Hermann und Dorothea, Die Jungfrau von Orleans, Immensee.

Fifth Term.—Three of the following: Egmont, Iphigenie auf Tauris, Minna von Barnhelm, Emilia Galotti, Wallenstein, Geschichte des dreissigjährigen Krieges, Friedrich der Grosse.

Sixth Term.—Nathan der Weise, Faust, Soll und Haben.

A postgraduate course is also offered.

French.—First Term. Elementary Grammar (Whitney). Inflections of nouns and adjectives; pronominal adjectives; partitive construction; conjugation of regular and some irregular verbs; easy translations of French into English and English into French, oral and written; ability to pronounce and spell French correctly.

Second Term.—Advanced Grammar. Reader (Whitney); essentials of French syntax and idiomatic phrases; rapid reading of French prose for vocabulary, by Daudet, Michelet, Lamartine, Merimee, Telemaque.

Third Term.—Plays of Corneille, Racine, Moliere, and others.

Fourth Term.—Fables of La Fontaine, Florian; chapters from novels by George Sand, Victor Hugo, Balzac, and others.

A postgraduate course is also offered.

 School Law, 10 weeks. 0 and 2 (4)
 Teaching and Criticism, 20 weeks.
 Kindergarten and Primary Methods, 10 weeks. 5
 Civil Law, 10 weeks. 4 (1), 4 (2) and 2 (1), 4 (2), 5 (2)
 Oration, one per term.

* Optional with School Law.

In electing subjects from the third year, candidates for graduation in either of these four years' courses will be required to elect at least one science from each term in said year.

The Elementary Course consists of the first two and the fourth years' work of the English Course, with the privilege of substituting one year's work in Latin for general history and chemistry; also civil law as a substitute for child study or school law.

The Academic Course consists of the first two years' work in either course above outlined, physiology or psychology, and seven full-term subjects or their equivalents from the third year.

An advanced class in bookkeeping is formed each half term.

Classes in orthography occupy the time for general exercises indicated on the program three days each week. The subject is required in all courses.

Exercises in calisthenics throughout each course. During a part of the last year, students conduct classes in calisthenics under the supervision of the director of physical culture. Leaders of these classes meet weekly for special drill.

A special ten weeks' class in physiology is formed at the beginning and the second half of each term. It gives a thorough review of elementary physiology, and is open to all students. Grades for it are not recognized for the diploma, however.

The special class in methods of study and elementary psychology is intended for teachers who wish a review of the elements of mental science, and particularly of didactics, as well as for students who may wish assistance in methods of study.

The rhetorical classes in declamation, essay, oration and theme meet one hour per week. The fourth-term rhetorical class spends all available time possible in actual practice of parliamentary law, with examinations at the close of the term. The last year rhetorical classes alternate in physical culture, and special lectures on oratorical composition and elementary logic.

Teachers holding first- or second-grade certificates with ninety per cent. on history and geography will be admitted to five weeks' special classes in each subject in reviews and methods of teaching. Teachers holding first-grade county certificates or their equivalent, on approval of the head of the department of mathematics or of English, and students holding diplomas from bachelor's course in approved universities and colleges, will be admitted to the five weeks' classes in methods in subjects above named in the last year of the course, each class to be taught by the head of the department to which the subject belongs.

French and German.—A two years' course in French and a three years' course in German are offered those wishing either in preference to Latin. Those completing the French or the German course as prescribed will be permitted to substitute an equivalent of either for the Latin in the Latin course and awarded a diploma designated as the English diploma with French or German as the candidate may have elected.

Electives.—No electives will be permitted, save as heretofore provided, without a formal vote of the faculty; and such electives must be made from the third year, the petition in all cases to be made and acted upon before the subject is taken in class.

During the first year, regular students will not be permitted to take more than one foreign language.

To graduate in one of the above courses, students must pass a final examination in each subject with a standing of at least eighty per cent., and must take teaching and criticism (except in the Academic Course) in the Model Department one hour per day for forty weeks, or its equivalent.

Students are admitted to any term or year on examination.

Students who lack a record in any first-term subject are not admitted to classes in fourth-year subjects, except in methods, management, and civil law.

Diplomas and Certificates.

Students completing any one of the first three courses named above are granted the diploma of the School, which by law is a life certificate to teach in the public schools of Kansas, including those of first and second class cities. A certificate of graduation is given on the completion of the Academic Course. It is not a certificate to teach. Those completing the first two years' work in any course, together with psychology or one full term of a strictly professional subject, and who show an aptitude to teach, are entitled to a one-year state certificate, good in any county in the state. Should a pupil desiring this certificate prefer, he may substitute one or two fourth-year subjects for a like number of fourth-term subjects.

Special Features.

By examining the course of study, it will be seen that the regular professional branches are grouped in a single year.

All subjects except surveying, school law and political economy are taught every term. This enables students to enter at the beginning of the second term with as great advantage as at the beginning of the first.

Diplomas are awarded students completing the course at the end of the first term in each year, though there is but one regular commencement day. Members of the January class take part with the June class in the exercises of commencement week.

Sub-Normal Class.

A sub-normal or preparatory class, intermediate in grade between the Model and the Normal Department, is formed at the opening of each term. The subjects embraced are: Geography, 10 weeks; mental arithmetic, 10 weeks; grammar, 10 weeks; reading and orthoepy, 10 weeks; United States history, 10 weeks; physiology, 10 weeks; penmanship, 10 weeks. The class in physiology takes the work in the special class, Normal Department. No one will be admitted to any A class, Normal Department, on an examination test falling below eighty per cent., except on written recommendation of teacher of the subject. No pupil lacking entrance requirement for any subject will be classified in the Normal Department. Pupils in any of these classes pay a fee of $5 per term of 20 weeks, or $1.50 per month for less time.

In case of necessity, the Sub-Normal classes may be assigned to the afternoon or to pupil-teachers from the training classes.

Any graduate in the Latin or English course will receive a certificate, upon examination in any subject named below, provided a grade of eighty per cent. or more be attained. The completion of six subjects, together with a satisfactory original thesis of from 4000 to 5000 words on some phase of educational work, will entitle the candidate to the degree of bachelor of pedagogy. The thesis shall be upon a subject approved by the President of the Faculty, and shall be printed or written by typewriter, bound in cloth, and filed in the library of the School. The degree will be awarded only to graduates of three years' standing, and of at least two years' successful teaching experience. In the selection of subjects for study and examination, with a view to the degree, one subject only shall be taken from any group; two shall be taken from the first three, and four from the others.

A Correspondence Course, selected from the subjects named, has been established, to aid such graduates as may desire to systematize their work and to secure the advantages of personal instruction from the Faculty. Each subject is divided into twenty lessons, requiring ten hours' preparation each, or two hours per day for a school week. Difficulties are explained and questions answered; written examinations are required after every fourth lesson, and are returned with corrections; a rigid examination is given upon the whole subject after it is completed. For particulars as to fees and advanced work in any department, address the President.

To be read: Classic French Course in English.

General Information.

Purposes of the School.

The purposes of the School are best set forth in the act of the legislature entitled "An act to establish, locate and endow a State Normal School": "That there be and is hereby established and permanently located at the town of Emporia, Lyon county, a State Normal School, the exclusive purposes of which shall be the instruction of persons, both male and female, in the art of teaching, and in all the various branches that pertain to a good common-school education, and in the mechanic arts, and in the arts of husbandry and agricultural chemistry, and in the fundamental laws of the United States, and in what regards the rights and duties of citizens," etc.

The course of study and methods of teaching in the Normal School are based upon the following principles:

1. That proficiency in the art of teaching is dependent upon a thorough knowledge of the fundamental principles of the science.
2. That every teacher should possess a historical as well as a philosophical knowledge of the means by which a harmonious development of the physical, intellectual, and moral powers is secured.
3. That clear conceptions of methods can more readily be attained by an intelligent study of them in practical operation.
4. That our public schools should not be made practice rooms for pedagogical novitiates, but that defects should be remedied and skill acquired in training schools supervised by competent critics.
5. That development should always be paramount to acquisition
6. That economy and adaptability should be the test of a method.
7. That self-government should be the aim of all discipline.
8. That high moral character is one of the essential qualifications of the good teacher.
9. That unity of aims and methods is necessary to the economic and successful management of the school system of a state.
10. That a training secured in working with appliances chosen with method in view always proves the most skilful.
11. That no teacher is properly equipped who is not familiar with the various methods of utilizing the material about him for illustrating simple lessons in all the physical sciences.

Conditions of Admission.

Teachers holding first-grade certificates are admitted to the Normal Department, second-term (first-year) classes, without examination. They are ranked, however, as first-term students until final records are made upon first-term subjects by examination. Teachers holding second-grade certificates are admitted to first-term classes, Normal Department, without examination.

Graduates holding diplomas from the following high schools are also admitted without examination:

Other candidates for admission are required to make a grade of eighty per cent. on examination in the common branches—arithmetic, reading, geography, grammar, United States history, writing, and spelling—and must present a certificate of good moral character from the county superintendent, or from some responsible person to whom the candidate is well known.

In arithmetic, the standard is ability to make the required per cent. on the examination questions prepared by the State Board of Education. The examination extends through the simple cases of percentage, special stress being laid upon difficult examples in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division of common fractions and decimals, and upon the cases in denominative numbers.

In geography, the entrance examination includes detailed information upon one's county, state and nation, the continents, the earth as a whole, measurements upon the earth, latitude and longitude, climatic changes and their causes, and the relations of natural resources to occupations.

In grammar, the candidate must be able to recognize at sight the elements of the English sentence and its various modifications as presented in any fair selection offered him for inspection, be able to present some good method of analysis, understand and use all the simple rules for contraction and expansion of modifying elements, and write a page of correct English. Reed and Kellogg's Higher Lessons, to page 164, plus ability to speak and write good English, will give a fair idea of the preparation needed for this examination.

In history, the examination embraces those portions of United States history known as the period of discovery, the history of the colonies, and the revolutionary war (1492-1789).

In reading, candidates are examined upon the elementary sounds of the language, upon the definitions of the most common terms employed, and upon their ability to interpret and read the ordinary selections found in our school books and newspapers. They are also required to show some knowledge of the elements of gesture.

Ability to write and spell at least fairly well, as shown in the examination papers on above subjects, is required.

Regular examinations for admission will be held on the first and second days of each term. For the accommodation of students entering later in the term, special examinations will be given on Monday and Tuesday only of each week. A fee of one dollar is charged for all such special examinations, except those given on Monday and Tuesday of the first week of the second half of each term. Candidates for advanced standing will be subject to the same conditions.

In addition to the foregoing requirements for admission to the Normal Department, candidates must subscribe to the following declaration and pledge:

"I hereby declare that my purpose in entering the State Normal School is to fit myself to teach in the schools of Kansas, and I solemnly agree, after leaving the same, to report to the President of the Faculty semi-annually, for three years, my location and occupation."

Those who prefer to pay the fee charged academic and special students, however, are excused from subscribing to the above. (See Fees.) Those who are taking the Academic Course and are enrolled in the Academic Department do not subscribe to the above. Students who prefer to pursue subjects in the course of study irregularly—that is, not in the order as prescribed—are, on payment of the fee as named, permitted to enroll as special students.

Teachers holding second-grade certificates will be admitted to subjects in the course which may be required for the first-grade certificate, if they desire, without being classified as irregular.

Civil law, methods, and school management may be taken by students anticipating examinations for certificates in which they are required, without being classed as irregular.

In each case where a member of the Faculty gives a written concession for a future examination, the student will be expected to meet the requirement at the time specified or become irregular.

Optionals must be taken in the order of the subjects for which they are substituted.

Advanced Standing.

Students who present certificates of honorable dismissal from the State University or the State Agricultural College will, without examination, be credited with such class records as are eighty per cent. or above.

Graduates in the arts course or in corresponding courses of first-class colleges will be admitted to the last year, or to the senior class, on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case.

Graduates of high schools and academies fitting students for admission to the freshman class, State University, or of high schools and academies of corresponding grade, will be given such credits as will admit them to the second-year class on entering the School, the Faculty designating the subjects to be pursued in each case. In both cases above mentioned, the course here will include a review of the common branches.

See note at end of course of study concerning classes in reviews of methods in the common branches.

Final Examination.

Candidates for advanced standing will be given final examination on any subject in the course, at the times and on the conditions named under "Conditions of Admission," which see. Each candidate will be required to give satisfactory evidence of a thorough acquaintance with the text-book designated in the list given, or with one of equivalent grade. No final examinations, except in course, will be given candidates for graduation after Wednesday of the eleventh week of the second term.

Fees.

No fees save the hospital-fund fee of twenty-five cents per term of twenty weeks, elsewhere explained, are charged students in the Normal Department. Students in the Academic Department and in the Sub-Normal classes are charged an incidental fee of five dollars per term of twenty weeks, payable in advance; for less than a full term, the fee is $1.50 per month. No deduction will be made for a less time than one month. Special students are charged the same fees.

All students whose residences are outside of the state immediately preceding the time of entrance are subject to the same fees as academic students.

The fee for either special course in kindergarten and primary methods is five dollars.

No fees will be refunded except in cases of protracted sickness; but in case of absence from other causes, the President may at his discretion credit unused balance on a future term.

Mileage.

All students meeting the regular requirements for admission to the Normal Department, and those who are pursuing the two years' course in kindergarten, may have necessary railroad fare in excess of three dollars refunded by the President of the Faculty, on presentation of receipts of agents from whom tickets are purchased.

Railroad fare is counted for one round trip only per year, and the rule applies only to students in attendance for the entire year.

Students in attendance for one full term of twenty weeks are entitled to have one-half of said extra fare refunded. Payment is made at the end of each term.

Mileage is paid only to students living more than 100 miles from Emporia and within the limits of the state of Kansas. Many students take advantage of these liberal provisions.

Board.

Students find little difficulty in securing pleasant accommodations within easy reach of the building. Every effort is made to reduce expenses to the minimum. Many students are paying as low as $2.35 and $2.75 for board in private families, while a very few pay $3 to $3.25 per week. Clubs are organized during the year, which report a reduction of about one-third from above rates. Those who board themselves reduce the cost about one-half. A careful comparison with the cost of living at other schools in the state shows that students demanding the same kind of accommodations live with as little expense here as at any of them.

Rooms.

Good unfurnished rooms, capable of accommodating from two to four students, rent for from $2 to $4 per month. Furnished rooms rent for from $4 to $6 per month.

Second-hand Stores.

There are several good secondhand stores in the city, and students can buy and sell at a loss about equal to rent of furniture and cooking utensils.

Probable Cost for a Term of Twenty Weeks.

Board and fuel .....	From $25 to $60
Books.....	From 5 to 8
Washing.....	From 6 to 10
Total.....	From $36 to $78
Students not regularly in Normal Department will add $5 for incidental fee.

The above estimates cover necessary expenses, and have been fully verified by reports of pupils attending the School during past years. Of those who were self-boarding, the average yearly expense, all told, for board and washing was $66.40; those boarding in clubs, average expense, as above, $97.24; those boarding in private families, average expense, as above, $123.59. Of course the expense for one-half year, one term of twenty weeks, was one-half of these amounts.

Students' Loan Fund.

The class of 1899 set apart the sum of $100 as the nucleus of a fund to be known as the students' loan fund. Deserving students within one year of graduation are given preference in the order of their application. For particulars, address the President of the School.

Buildings, Apparatus, etc.

The main building is a stately and beautiful edifice, admirably adapted to the purposes of the School. The main corridor is nearly 300 feet long, and the entire building contains eighty rooms, exclusive of closets and wardrobes, especially adapted to the wants of the School—making it one of the most complete and convenient buildings of the kind in this country. It is supplied with water from the city water-works, with gas, electric light, electric bells, has telephonic connection with the city exchange, and is heated by steam. The new assembly-room is said to be the finest auditorium in the state. The laboratories for the departments of the natural sciences are liberally furnished with the latest and best appliances for illustration and experimentation. The apparatus is already valuable, and is increasing every year. The natural history collection is growing rapidly, and is a valuable aid to class work.

The last legislature appropriated money for a janitor's house, for a new boiler-house, and for remodeling and enlarging the present boiler-house for a gymnasium. These three new buildings greatly increase the facilities in several departments.

The library and reading-room occupy a handsome suite of four rooms on the second floor.

The Music Department occupies eight fine rooms on the third floor. The School possesses thirteen pianos and an organ, thus supplying a sufficient number of instruments to accomodate all who may wish to use them for practice. The Department of Drawing is well equipped with a full line of casts, reliefs, models, typical historical ornaments, illustrations of the various schools of architecture, photographs, etchings, engravings, stereopticon views, etc. Every year valuable additions are made to this collection. It is conceded that no other normal school west of New York possesses ampler facilities for instruction in art. The department occupies two rooms on the third floor.

The rooms devoted to the Kindergarten and Model School are furnished with all the modern appliances in the way of modeling boards, sand pans, number rods, reading boxes, balances, measures, charts, maps, geometrical forms, gifts, books for little people, collections of the most common and most interesting minerals, etc. The regents appreciate the value of the splendid line of helps now so generally regarded as essential in all primary and intermediate work, and make liberal provisions for their use by the pupil-teachers.

Two rooms in the basement are furnished with a full set of tables and tools, including turning-lathe, scroll-saw, etc., for work in manual training. See outline of work on another page.

The new gymnasium is well supplied with apparatus for physical exercise. Besides rings, wands, clubs, bean bags, dumb-bells, and chest weights for light gymnastics, there are walking rings, ladders, and such other material for heavy gymnastics as the space will allow; also, a complete set of apparatus for making physical measurements.

What has been said of the facilities in a few of the departments is equally true of all.

Library.

As stated in another place, the library is located in a handsome suite of rooms on the second floor. It contains over 13,000 volumes of choice books, most of them selected with special reference to the needs of the School. The list embraces a fine line of cyclopedias, lexicons, gazetteers, and educational reports; works on the theory, the art, and the history of education; and standard works on history, literature, science, philosophy, etc. The Plumb collection of public documents is proving a valuable feature for historical students. Students have free access to all of the books, under such restrictions as will insure proper care. No one thing is more imper-

Literary Societies.

The regular work of the classroom is well supplemented by the general exercises in the literary societies. The Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies meet on Friday evenings in their large and tastefully furnished halls. The Alpha Senate and the Oratorical Association afford excellent facilities for improvement in extemporaneous debate and original oration. The Amasagacian Society, composed of Model School and first-term pupils, holds its meetings on Friday afternoons.

Lectures.

In addition to lectures by members of the Faculty at stated intervals, a full course of first-class entertainments is engaged with the opening of each year. Students get the advantage of very low rates, and the net proceeds go to the library and to the literary societies of the School. Tickets for the regular course of six entertainments, reserved seats included, are one dollar each. The course for the past year consisted of lectures and entertainments by Dr. Russel H. Conwell, Boston Symphony Club, Alexander Black, Col. L. F. Copeland, Col. George W. Bain, and the Bruno Steindel Company.

One of the pleasant features of the School is the frequent appearance on the platform, at the morning hour, of distinguished men and women in the various walks of life. Their informal talks are often most eloquent and helpful.

Prize Contests.

Prizes are offered by the Regents for the highest proficiency in declamation, essay, debate, and dramatic art; and by the Oratorical Association in oration.

Major Calvin Hood, of this city, kindly offers a cash prize of thirty dollars for the contestant ranking highest in the March debate, and ten dollars for the second in rank. Mary Martin and A. B. Stroup were the respective winners of these prizes in the last debate.

The contest in declamation is open to first-year students only; in essay, to the second-year students. The contestants in oration are selected from a list supplied by the Oratorical Association of the School. The successful contestant in oration represents the association in the annual contest of the Inter-State Normal Oratorical League.

The contest in debate is open to all students above the first year in the Normal Department. The contestants are selected by the Lyceum, Literati, Belles-lettres and Philomathian societies—two from each society; the societies contesting each year in order, as provided by the regulations governing the contest. The contestants in dramatic art are selected by the societies engaging in the March contest in debate.

The last June debate was won by the Literati Society, represented by Charles McKinley and E. D. George; the last March debate, by the Lyceum Society, represented by Mary Martin and Edwin E. Brookens.

The prize in last declamation contest was won by Olga Martin.

The prize in last essay contest was won by Lela Lockhart.

The prize in last contest in oration was won by Anna Paterson.

Discipline.

So many of our pupils have already had some experience in practical life, that they become valuable aids in developing a healthy school sentiment. This renders few restraints necessary. Still, every effort of the Faculty is given towards making the pupils self-reliant, self-controlled men and women; and those whose best endeavor is not in accord with this purpose are summarily dismissed from the School.

To Our Friends.

It is hoped that the alumni and other friends will join the officers of the School in extending its benefits as widely as possible.

County superintendents and others who desire to promote popular education are requested to consider the claims of the Normal School when they are called upon for advice by those who desire to perfect themselves in the teacher's art. It is believed that it presents as favorable opportunities for becoming acquainted with the science and art of education as any other institution in the West.

It is always the pleasure of the Faculty to aid school officers in securing competent teachers. Letters of inquiry addressed to the President will receive prompt attention.

Admission and Credits from High Schools.

The President of the Faculty will take pleasure in corresponding with school principals and superintendents who may desire to make such arrangements as may be necessary in order that their high-school diplomas may admit candidates to the Normal Department of the School without examination, or who may contemplate adopting a course of study which might give graduates advanced standing. (See list of schools whose diplomas are already recognized, page 59.)

Miscellaneous.

Students are not permitted to take any work outside of their regular classes without the express permission of the President.

Students will not be excused from their classes to go home before the regular recesses begin.

Absence from any required exercise must be accounted for before a student can be permitted to enter a succeeding recitation.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor occupies a well-furnished room in the third story of the building. Devotional meetings are held every Sabbath afternoon, to which all students are cordially invited.

The Faculty publish an eight-page periodical, The State Normal Monthly, which has a large circulation, and which serves as an excellent means of communication among the friends of the School. It also enables them to present certain phases of their work to the public. The subscription price is fifty cents per year.

A stock company of students of the Literati Society publishes the Oven, a semimonthly paper full of Normal news and items of general interest. Subscription, fifty cents per year.

An athletic association, composed of members of the Faculty and students, provides outdoor exercises and amusements in abundance, including baseball, lawn-tennis, croquet, golf, bicycling, military drill, pentathlon exercises, etc. The field-day exercises, at which all these sections come together, is one of the great features of the year.

Advice.

Those proposing to enter are reminded of the importance of being present at the opening of the session. The student who is behind-hand then rarely makes up what he has lost, and will feel a constantly increasing embarrassment throughout the entire term. The habit which is thus indulged indicates a lack of fitness for the profession of teaching. Those students whose standing is to be determined by examination should be present on the days appointed; otherwise, they will subject themselves to the inconvenience and expense of special examinations.

Students arriving in the city will report at once at the office of the President, where they will receive such assistance in securing homes as they may require.

Read this catalogue carefully, and write to the President for any information that it does not supply.

Analysis of the Attendance.

During the past year, the number enrolled in the Normal Department was 1629, and in the Model School 173. A limited number only are admitted to the Model School.

Over 600 students held teachers' certificates on entering; 139 held first-grade and 315 second-grade certificates; nearly 250 were graduates of high schools, academies, or colleges.

The class of 1899, 95 members, averages twenty-five years of age and over three years' teaching experience.

These facts afford some idea of the character of students in attendance, and show how fully the School is carrying out the idea for which it was founded.

The following-named counties, 92 in all, were represented during the past year. As younger children make up the classes in the primary and intermediate departments of the Model School, the pupils listed there are largely from Emporia or from the immediate vicinity. Many pupils who are enrolled as from Emporia belong to families residing here temporarily for the purpose of educating their children.

Summer Session.

The Regents have provided for a summer session of the School, in which all of the departments will be represented and classes organized in all subjects included in the courses of study. This summer term will be a great boon to teachers who wish to advance themselves in their profession and yet do not feel financially able to give up teaching and attend during the regular school year. Many graduates of this and other institutions of learning have so often expressed a desire for such an opportunity to take up professional or other special studies that we are satisfied that this vacation session will prove even more popular than any of the summer schools heretofore conducted by individual members of the Faculty. As the legislature has made no appropriation for the summer session, it must be maintained by fees, and the fee for the nine weeks' session has been fixed at thirteen dollars, payable in advance. When it is remembered that this sum places all of the facilities of the School at the service of the student, its reasonableness will be conceded at once. The expenses for rooms and board will be a little less each week than for the other terms. Many former students usually summer here, claiming that they can live in Emporia more cheaply and comfortably than elsewhere. See estimate on a preceding page.

The summer session for 1899 will open on June 15, giving students who come a few days in advance an opportunity to enjoy the various delightful exercises and festivals of commencement week. The summer term for 1900 will begin June 7.

In the arrangement of the daily program, students will be permitted sufficient freedom in the selection of studies to economize their time and strength to the best possible advantage. Emporia is probably as good a summer resort as there is in Kansas. Its streets and avenues are lined with many miles of blue-grass parking and refreshing shade-trees. The lovely groves along both rivers elsewhere mentioned are but a few minutes' walk from the center of the city. Boating, bathing, fishing, wheeling, open-air evening band concerts, and driving, added to golf and tennis on the Normal campus, give sufficient variety of exercise and amusement to meet all tastes and temperaments. The Normal campus is covered with attractive shade-trees, and nearly all of the rooms in the great building are cool and restful almost every day in midsummer.

Emporia.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe and the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroads, with their extended branches, make Emporia easily accessible from all parts of the state.

The city contains nearly 10,000 inhabitants, and is noted for its many beautiful homes and churches. Lying on the ridge between the Neosho and Cottonwood rivers, its natural drainage is perfect, and it is, consequently, one of the healthiest cities in the West. The moral and educational tone, as well as the business enterprise of its citizens, combine to make it the ideal place for an institution of learning. Rooms in many of the most comfortable and attractive homes in the city are open to students at reasonable rates. In this connection, it might be stated that the moral and spiritual atmosphere in the State Normal School is stimulating and wholesome. Its students have ever been most generous in testifying to its helpfulness to a better living. Our church friends need have no fear that their children will not find a church home and church friends in abundance. There are about twenty different denominations represented in the churches of Emporia, and in nearly every Sunday-school there are one or more classes composed almost exclusively of Normal students. Every Endeavor association, League and Union in the city has consecrated students in its membership. The Union Christian Endeavor Society of the School is one of the largest and best organized in the state. A late canvass showed seventy-five per cent. of the students to be professing Christians, a proportion seldom exceeded at even a denominational school.

Recent Features.

The organization of the departments of child study, physical training and manual training have provided facilities in these lines not elsewhere offered in Kansas. Teachers who may desire to specialize in one or all of them will find the instruction most happily suited to their wants. The day is not far distant when every teacher will be tested by his familiarity with child nature and child mind, and with the laws of child growth. Manual training will not be long in entering every progressive city in the state, and the teacher's preparation will not be complete without it.<sup>1</sup>

The course in elementary psychology and methods of study, as well as the special reviews in principles and methods in the common branches, are other advance steps recently made that teachers will appreciate.

French and German have been made a part of the curriculum of the School, and regular students will no longer be charged fees for those subjects.

Another great step forward will be seen in the #### Hospital Fund.

Experience has demonstrated the great advantage of having a trained nurse in connection with a large institution of learning. A little wise counsel and early attention to slight indispositions often prevent serious illness. In every case of sickness a wise and sympathetic nurse is almost as important as a skilled physician. The Regents have authorized the employment of an assistant in physical training who shall be a trained nurse, and whose special duty it shall be to look after the hygienic condition of the premises where students room, to advise and counsel with students in poor health, and to nurse and care for such sick students as may be needing assistance. To meet the expense of this special assistant, each student will be asked to pay the sum of twenty-five cents each half year. The Regents are assured that this provision will meet with generous approval on every hand, and that it will greatly add to the general health and comfort of the students.

The following brief outline of the work done in the different branches included in the course of study will give a fair idea of the standard maintained. The requirements for admission are essentially the same as are generally required for a second-grade certificate, and students holding any certificate are required to pass additional final examination upon the work as outlined in the course. Students recite daily in every subject for the time named, and are supposed to spend approximately two hours each day in the preparation of the lesson assigned, and each one is held responsible for the same.

Political Geography.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are expected to be already familiar with the position of the earth in the solar system, proofs for general and real form, details concerning political divisions, etc., and to enter at once upon exhaustive work on seasons, tides, latitude, longitude, standard time, United States land survey, religions, races—influence on each other, possibilities of each, location and development. In the study of a country, special attention is given to degree of civilization attained. Causes for same are discovered in its contour, resources, waters, commerce, etc.; origin of religions; effects of various religions on education and advancement. Government is studied as an index to national life, thus classifying great civilizing elements. Rapid map work with pencil and crayon, also relief, supplements class work. An effort is made to use the best methods in presenting every lesson; but a special series of model lessons in intermediate and primary work is also given. The apparatus used in the class is manufactured by the pupils themselves. Changes in rulers, governments, and territory, together with all engineering projects that affect the geography of a country, are discussed in class.

Vocal Music.—Twenty weeks. Staff notations and principles of tonic sol-fa, time names, intervals, triads, and chords of the dominant and other sevenths, in both major and minor modes, are taught. Short talks and lectures in history of notation and methods of teaching are given.

Oratory.—Twenty weeks. The work in oratory is similar to the work in elocution, being more advanced work in kindred lines. In rendering, eight additional steps are presented, necessitating a deeper and more thorough study of the literature used. Twice during the year each student prepares and presents, independent of suggestion from any one, some standard English or American oration. During the last ten weeks, the class study a Shakespearian play, noting the plot, the development of the characters, and the portrayal of strong emotion. Much of the play is memorized, and pupils are encouraged to give their own interpretation of the lines. The biographies of eminent American orators are studied during the first ten weeks, and of English orators during the second. More advanced work is done in voice and gesture, leading pupils to express mind and soul through both. The object in all this work is to lead pupils to realize that, for the highest form of expression, there must be a symmetrical development of the human being—mind, body, and voice—all cultured, and each responsive to the other.

Elocution.—Twenty weeks. The Emerson system of oratory, embracing rendering, physical culture, and vocal culture, is taught. In addition, pupils are given work in visible speech, which aids particularly in correct formation of elementary sounds. During the twenty weeks eight of the steps in rendering, viz., animation, smoothness, volume, articulation, slide, vital slide, slide in volume, forming of pictures, are taught. This leads to natural, artistic delivery. Fifteen physical exercises, designed to strengthen every muscle of the body, and to give it grace and expression, to give response to the mind, are taught. They are slow, rhythmic movements, possessing the strength of the Swedish movements and the grace of the Delsarte system. Almost daily drill is given to the voice. The aim is to develop pure musical quality of tone, then volume, then flexibility, then expression. Pupils are led to see that the highest development of voice can be attained only by development of mind and soul. Pupils prepare at least one selection without any assistance, as an example of their ability to assimilate and interpret thought. Every recitation is an exercise in didactics, but especial attention is from time to time given to the best methods of presenting reading in different grades in school. Pupils discuss methods freely. In connection with the training of the voice and body, they discover the physiological and aesthetic value of the exercises.

Mathematics.

Arithmetic.—Twenty weeks. Expertness in addition, subtraction, multiplication, division, and the solution of problems; mastery of many subjects found only in advanced arithmetics; ability to prove every principle in the science; mastery of the best methods of presentation and explanation—our most important work.

Algebra.—Forty weeks. Ability to solve the examples in an academic algebra; to talk and chalk at the same time; power in original investigation; ability to demonstrate formally and rigidly all principles.

Geometry.—Twenty weeks. Ability to pass a thorough examination in plane and solid geometry; a knowledge of how to investigate relations and how to teach others to attain the same end.

Trigonometry and Surveying.—Ten weeks to trigonometry; ten weeks to surveying. Trigonometry is studied as far as the oblique spherical triangle; it may be taken independently of surveying. Surveying embraces the use of drawing instruments, the transit, plane table, solar compass, and Y level; the ordinary work required of the county surveyor. Each student is required to spend one hour per day for ten weeks in actual field-work with instruments.

Natural Sciences.

Physical Geography.—Ten weeks. Tarr's Elements is used as a guide. Astronomical geography, and the practical topics of weather, climate, rainfall, are elaborated. Numerous experiments are given.

Botany.—Twenty weeks. A thorough knowledge of structural botany from the study of actual specimens; special study of fifty plants; three hours of each week with the compound microscope (each pupil having an instrument), studying the histology of plants and making drawings of the work; observations and drawings of germination of seeds; a study, with observations, on physiology; elements of economic botany, and a brief view of the lower plants. Laboratory work requires one-half of the time.

Zoology.—Twenty weeks. Dissections and descriptions of a full line of typical specimens, such as worms, crayfish, mussels, fish, etc.; the identification of Kansas birds, studied from an economic standpoint; economic entomology, embracing a collection of our common insects; a special study of a number of other lines. Nearly all of the work is done by use of actual specimens, and not from texts. Free use is made of the compound microscope.

Geology and Mineralogy.—Twenty weeks. Le Conte's Elements (revised) is used as a text. Field-work is done. Full lines of fossils in our museum are studied and identified. In mineralogy, forty typical minerals are identified by each student by chemical and blowpipe analysis. The laboratory work requires two-fifths of the student's time in the subject.

Physiology.—Twenty weeks. In addition to the class work with Martin's Human Body (unabridged) as a text, the pupils dissect the bodies of animals of the lower orders, and show the nature of the bones, muscles, ligaments, heart, lungs, brain, and nervous system, and the tissues of all parts of the body. The compound microscope is also used in investigating cellular structure.

Chemistry.—Twenty weeks. The greater part of the time is devoted to practical laboratory work, generating gases, examining new substances, and investigating the laws of chemical affinity. The students in many cases manufacture their own chemicals.

Astronomy.—Ten weeks. In addition to text work, the students devote from one to two evenings each week to outdoor studies, tracing and locating stars, planets, meteors, and nebulous masses.

Physics.—Twenty weeks. The time is divided between class and laboratory work. The properties of matter, mechanics, electricity, light and sound are carefully investigated. For example, in electricity the students make batteries and illustrate the laws of the electric currents. They then with the battery show its use in the production of electric light; as a mechanical agent, in ringing bells and driving machinery; as a medical agent, in stimulating the nervous system and decomposing chemical compounds; as a help in science, in connection with the telephone, telegraph, phonograph, anemometer, and rapid railway facilities. The other divisions of the subject of philosophy are treated in like manner.

Bookkeeping and Penmanship.

Introductory Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. The text-book adopted for use in the public schools of the state—Stevenson's Introductory Bookkeeping—is used as a text, and special attention is given to methods of teaching the subject. The relation of account keeping to the affairs of daily life and the practical economics of thrift, economy and systematic classification are forced into the thought and experience of the student. It is believed that familiarity with business forms, the laws of business and methods of keeping books in various lines of business will make the teacher an intelligent factor in the business as well as the scholastic life of the community.

Advanced Bookkeeping.—Ten weeks. A fair library of texts on advanced accounting, commercial law and practical economics makes it possible for the students in this subject to follow the topical method of study. "Actual business from the start" is a feature of this class, and the student learns to invest, borrow, and lend from actual experience. The bookkeeping of banks, corporations, partnerships, and stock companies receives attention, as well as the law and customs pertaining thereto. This work is optional, yet the number taking it each term is steadily increasing.

Penmanship.—Ten weeks. The student is required to become a legible, rapid writer, in fact as well as theory, and to know how to secure like results as a teacher of the subject. Much emphasis is placed upon the requirement of involuntary control in writing, as evidenced in speed and ease of action, a correct and hygienic position, and a free movement. The following styles, resulting from changes in position and movement and slight modifications in forms, are mastered by all students: (1) Normal standard, natural slant. (2) Normal standard, perpendicular. (3) Roudebush rapid vertical. (4) Normal standard, double-spaced. (5) Normal backhand. (6)

Normal standard, coarse pen. (7) Normal standard, compact. (8) Normal standard, business hand. (9) Normal standard, abbreviated. (10) Package printing style. The effect of learning all these styles is to strengthen the student's individual style, prepare him to teach all of them, and to understand from experience their various points of excellence and defects.

The application of writing to business forms, correspondence, essays, examination papers, etc., receives much attention, and the student is made familiar with methods of teaching and the various theories regarding movement, position, style of letters, etc. The well-written page is the end desired, and it is found that this is secured without technical analysis, extremely accurate forms, or any fixed slant.

The department has collected the copy-books of nearly every country on the globe, and also has many large albums containing autograph letters of the great and good people of the world. These are of much value in awakening interest and thought.

Shorthand and Typewriting.

This work is under the direction of the department of bookkeeping and penmanship. The Benn Pitman, or American system of shorthand is taught. Students who have finished the work in shorthand, together with the typewriting, have secured excellent positions. The shorthand is of especial value to students in the advanced classes in the institution. The fee charged for these subjects is very small: Shorthand, five dollars for thirty lessons; typewriting, three dollars for thirty hours' practice, with instruction.

Drawing.

First three terms, ten weeks each.

First Term.—Geometric problems, arrangement, study of historic ornament and plant forms, elementary design from plant form, modeling in clay, the type solids and objects based upon these, working drawings, outline drawing from objects.

Second Term.—Orthographic projection, plane perspective, elements of light and shade, applied design, modeling and casting historic ornament, free-hand outline and light and shade drawing from objects.

Third Term.—Elements of building construction, original design for a schoolhouse, theory and harmony of color, elements of figure drawing and composition; pen, charcoal and wash drawings.

Fourth Term.—Twenty weeks. History of art, water color, wood carving, figure drawing and composition, plaster casting.

Methods and outlines for teaching drawing in the public schools form an important part of the regular class work throughout the course. In addition to the recitation period, two hours of studio work each day are required from pupils in this department.

Special lessons in oil and water-color painting and advanced work in drawing will be given by the teacher of the department at the usual prices for such lessons. Students who have completed the thirty weeks' work in drawing may thus continue the technical work and the study of methods of teaching. Many cities now require a special teacher and superintendent of the work in drawing, and students possessing special ability in that direction have every encouragement to fit themselves for it.

A studio accommodating a limited number of students is well supplied with models, easels, etc. Thus the demand for more advanced work than can be taken up in the regular course of study is met, and several graduates of the School have availed themselves of the privilege during the present year.

Manual Training.

Manual training in its essence is old, but in its present form is modern. It consists of a series of exercises in which each exercise is a specific use of a tool, involving a certain mental effort.

The popular impression that only those who are to become tradesmen should take it is a mistaken one. Neither is the value of a course in manual training limited to those who have special aptitude along this line. Its aim is a general culture; a harmonious development of the pupil.

Manual training develops the body physically by means of properly arranged series of exercises; it increases the powers of the mind by cultivating neatness, carefulness, accuracy, individuality, close observation, the will power, creative instinct, the emotions, and the æsthetic sense; it raises the ideal of trades and the moral standard of rectitude and honesty.

Manual training supplements the book work in the public-school course of instruction in the best possible manner. It brings the pupil into actual contact with the crude material, which is changed and formed for a purpose. It enables the pupil to discriminate as to weight, size, form, color, hardness, and to learn all about the physical characteristics of the material. The habit of overcoming a resistance for a righteous purpose is invaluable.

Three elementary courses are offered, as follows:

1. Clay modeling, paper folding, and cardboard work.
2. Wood-working and Venetian ironwork.
3. Wood-carving and repoussé work.

1. Clay Modeling.—The type solids and objects based on them; geometrical borders; geometrical tiles; nature work; copying casts; casting in plaster of Paris.

Paper Folding.—Making ground forms; folding beauty forms.

Cardboard Work.—Drawing, cutting, folding, pasting, completing model.

2. Wood-working.—Making working drawing of model; making model; consideration of explanations of series of exercises and their progression; history of manual training; the use, construction and care of tools; woods—their growth, qualities, and structure; manual-training outfit, prices, etc.

Venetian Ironwork.—Making object from drawing; original design; cutting, bending, and binding.

3. Wood-carving.—Making drawing of pattern on wood; carving same; use and care of tools; original design.

Repousse Work.—Transferring design; fastening work; working design; original design; care, use and manufacture of tools.

Special consideration is given to that part of the work which is of value in the grades of the public schools.

The wood-working equipment consists of individual benches well supplied with tools, so that each pupil may work to the best advantage.

History and Civics.

U. S. History, Constitution Period.—Ten weeks. Pupils entering these classes are required to pass examination on colonial history, and to be conversant with the leading facts of this period. The administrations are studied philosophically, to discover basal principles, controlling influences, incidental tendencies, etc. The growth of the American idea of government, as embodied in our present constitution, is discovered by pupils in their library work, among such writers as Story, Wilson, Porter, Bryce, and Fiske. A critical study is made of slavery, financial crises, political parties, tariff, foreign policy, etc., for the express purpose of comparisons, of associating influences, of tracing reflex actions. In all this work the pupil must be able to assign proper causes for discovered effects. Independent investigation on the part of each pupil must exhaust the resources of our library on these subjects before conclusions are permitted to be drawn. A subject is given to each pupil, which must be developed by him through careful study of all writers on the subject to which he may have access. The result of this laboratory work—a short, terse essay—must be then presented to the class for discussion and criticism. The object of this work is two-fold: First, to teach the student how to work with books; second, to teach methods of sifting material and arriving at historical facts.

Much attention is paid to the geography of our history, current events, and the signs of the times. The classes are instructed as to methods of beginning the study of American history in primary grades, also as to general principles to be observed in presenting the subject to older pupils.

General History.—Twenty weeks. A review is made of ancient, medieval and modern history. The biographies of great rulers and leaders of thought are carefully studied. Special attention is given to an inquiry into the causes and the results of the great political and religious upheavals in the world's history. Students have daily access to the library, and are from time to time required to do special research work.

U. S. Constitution.—Ten weeks. Andrews' Manual of the Constitution, with special reference to preparing students to teach in a judicious and intelligent manner the duties and rights of a citizen. The more important parts of the constitution are memorized verbatim, and the peculiarities of the constitutions of other countries are considered. The prominent features of the Kansas constitution and the plan of the state governments in general are discussed, and additional matter supplementary to the text is introduced in explanation and illustration. The review of historical events and the study of current news with reference to political science is a valuable part of this work.

Political Economy.—Ten weeks. The course includes daily discussions of wealth, value, money, interest, capital, labor, coöperative industries, protection, free trade, and banking. In addition to the above, weekly reviews are made of new legislation and the prominent economic questions of the day.

Language.

Grammar.—Twenty weeks. Special attention is given to the development of the science by such steps as must be taken in teaching pupils; to the preparation of illustrative material, both by selections from best writings and by composition; to a careful discrimination of such constructions as follow the laws of the language, and such as are termed idiomatic. A study of English classics follows, such as Prisoner of Chillon, Lady of the Lake, Webster's Eulogy on Adams and Jefferson, etc.

Rhetoric.—Twenty weeks. The aim is twofold: First to read, appreciatively and with culture results, the various styles of literature; second, to use the mother tongue with accuracy and elegance. Outlines of magazine articles, of famous essays, and even of books, the testing of the laws of criticism by standard works, and a study of æsthetics, secure the one; practice in variation of diction and sentence structure, in paragraph making, in preparation of themes and theme outlines, secures the latter.

English Literature.—Twenty weeks. Careful classifications are made. The historical events and minor English writers, together with contemporary European and American writers, are grouped about the central writer of a given age. This furnishes a bird's-eye view of world literature and events. Then follows a critical study of English masterpieces.

Literary Criticism.—Twenty weeks. A poet's poems are studied for the sources of his inspiration and his attitude toward the great purposes of life; the drama is studied for its technique and function, and for the special view-point of character and action taken by the artist; the novel, for its motif, plot, and development of character. Argument is treated both inductively and deductively. If a pupil uses the critics it is after his own work is done, and not before.

Latin.—One hundred weeks required, twenty weeks additional offered in the Latin course. First year, twenty weeks: Lowe and Butler's Bellum Helveticum. Thorough mastery of principles of pronunciation; inflections of nouns, adjectives, verbs, and pronouns; comparison; principles of syntax suggested by the text. Daily exercise in writing Latin.

Second Twenty Weeks.—Principles of syntax developed in reading Caesar, first or second book, Helvetian war, or Viri Romæ. Prose composition, based on the text. Daily references to Bennett's Grammar. Especial grammatical drill in indirect discourse and uses of the subjunctive.

Third Twenty Weeks.—Caesar's Gallic War. Four books completed. Exercises in prose composition continued. Review of grammar, based on Tomlinson's Manual of Latin Grammar.

Fourth Twenty Weeks.—Five orations of Cicero, usually the four against Catiline and the one for the poet Archias. Study of the life of Cicero, and Roman history with special reference to his times. Attention to etymology throughout the course. Study of prose composition.

Fifth Twenty Weeks.—Æneid of Vergil, first four books. Study of Latin prosody.

Psychology and Professional Subjects.

Psychology.—Twenty weeks. Every phase of the subject as presented by Dewey is carefully examined from the empirical standpoint, together with the theories of mind, of knowledge, of conscience, etc. The valuable line of books on this subject in the reference library is constantly used. At each step the educational side of the science is carefully set forth.

Philosophy of Education.—Ten weeks. With the twenty weeks' work in psychology as a basis, a full outline of the nature, form and limits of education, and the principles underlying physical, intellectual and moral education, together with their practical application in the various stages of the child's development, is worked out in class. Rosenkranz is used as a text.

School Law.—The subject is prefaced by a thorough discussion of the endowment by the national government of all the schools in the states and territories; also, miscellaneous appropriations to the permanent school fund from colonial times to the present.

The statute laws of the state relating to public education are studied under four heads—organization, management, classification, and support. A comparison of the laws of Kansas with those of other states is made, giving special reference to the above points and the relative degree of efficiency. The technicalities of law involved in the disposition of school lands, and the opinion on doubtful points of law given by the state superintendents and attorneys-general, are fully discussed. The laws of the more important European countries relating to the common schools are examined and compared with those of our own.

Along with this work, a few weeks are given to a study of Taylor's Outline of Civil Government in Kansas.

Child Study.—This subject is divided into three lines of work: Classroom, theme, and laboratory work. The work in the classroom consists of a study of the literature of the subject. From this is obtained a knowledge of the care, training, and treatment of children among ancient peoples and in medieval and earlier modern times; the condition of children among uncivilized and semicivilized peoples; the care and handling of abnormal children, and what has been learned about the normal child—physically, mentally, and morally. The theme work consists of the preparation of a theme by each one engaging in the work, and will be upon some phase of child nature which has been gained wholly from personal observation and study. In the laboratory, a series of observations, measurements, and tests of children will be made. Child study is elective with school law.

History of Education.—Twenty weeks. Painter's text is used, and covers the whole subject, from the rise of the earliest nations to the present time. Boone's History of Education in the United States gives a full and complete view of what has been done and is being done in this country. The students also read in the School library the educational classics of all time, and get a comprehensive view of the literature of the profession. The class endeavors to systematize the facts given in these books and to show the tendency of the various steps in educational history. A considerable amount of supplementary work is introduced, for which pupils are held responsible both in recitation and examination.

School Management.—Ten weeks. The establishment, organization and conduct of schools; districts, sites, buildings and their equipments; grading, programs, managing classes, employments, incentives, securing coöperation of pupils; qualifications and duties of teachers; school boards and their duties; city school systems, most approved method of city school organization, etc.

Methods: General.—Ten weeks. A text on methods in all school subjects is studied for recitation during ten weeks, and the different teachers of different academical subjects in the institution supplement their work with lectures on methods in their particular subjects. The teacher in charge of general methods supplements the text with discussion of the latest and most approved methods of teaching the different subjects. See page 51 for information concerning special classes in reviews and methods in the common branches.

Methods: Primary.—Ten weeks. The suggestions of the teacher are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the children. The leading features of the special training for primary teachers as described below are given in as full an epitome as time will allow. The principles and methods which every teacher ought to understand, though he may not engage in the actual teaching of the primary grades, are given to all who take the life certificate diploma of the School.

Training for Primary Teachers.—This course in primary methods based on the kindergarten is specially suited to graduates of high schools who expect to teach in the lower grades of city schools. Teachers now engaged in primary grades will find it desirable to take this work. The principles of the kindergarten are applicable in so many of their phases to the teaching of grades above the primary that every teacher finds them valuable.

The course is designed to occupy the entire time for twenty weeks. A certificate is given at its completion signed by the head of the kindergarten department, the President of the institution, and the principal of the training department. This has no legal value as a license to teach in the public schools. The same qualifications are required for entering this course as for entering the Normal Department.

The work begins with observing teaching done by the head of the department and discovering the principles of psychology upon which it is based. Afterward the student teaches and the work is discussed at the daily meeting. The training of the student teachers in story-telling is a feature much emphasized. As far as possible, this course gives an understanding of the connected program arranged largely according to the seasons and the recurring changes of plant and animal life. The key-note for each day is given in the morning songs and talks, and the play period illustrates and explains how to make the kindergarten games helpful in all primary schools.

In the usual studies of the primary school, especial attention is devoted to preparation for reading, since the child must learn to read, that he may as soon as possible learn through reading. The first lessons are entirely from the blackboard, next comes the transition from script to print, after which the reading becomes a word, phrase, and thought study. The number work is begun with the very youngest classes, in connection with the study in color, form, and drawing, together with the different kindergarten occupations. The effort is made to lead the child to form the habit of correct and logical thinking. All the other subjects of primary schools are introduced with special reference to method.

The lectures on the gifts are illustrated in the daily lessons given to the youngest pupils. The first gift, the six soft balls, gives the three primary and the three secondary colors as a basis for the first lessons in form, color, and number, these lessons being given in connection with the games as well as in the lessons proper given to the children. The second gift, the wooden ball, cylinder, and cube, carries on the study of form, and of the different properties of matter, and gives the basis for the classification of objects. The early clay work is based on the forms of the second gift and illustrates the great principle underlying Froebel's work—the connection of opposites. The sphere and the cube are opposites; the cylinder is the mediator between them and possesses some qualities of each. This bringing together of the unlike for harmonious growth is illustrated in the organization of this department, which gives not the pure kindergarten alone, but pure primary also, the transition class being taken from kindergarten to primary by such easy steps that there is no abrupt change from concrete to abstract work. Particular attention is devoted to the matter of songs and games and their educative influences, as they, more than any other feature of Froebel's work, embody the great underlying principle of all education. Music in its educative value has an important place in this work. A feature in this line is the interpretation of piano music—"songs without words."

The study of the succeeding gifts assists the child in the analysis of the parts of the second gift. Along with this analysis, he makes further abstractions in number, in the study of the solid and its subdivisions, and the study of all the different surfaces, angles and lines presented. This work is done in connection with the periods devoted by the little ones to invention by the use of building blocks and other material. The occupations of the kindergarten, sewing, weaving, pasting, clay modeling, paper cutting and folding, are used not only with the kindergarten pupils but with the primary classes as well. The effort is to show the student teacher why and how these occupations are valuable for use in common schools, since kindergarten gifts and occupations are no better in themselves for study and for busy work than some other possible means of employment unless the teacher understands the philosophy underlying their use. In addition to this means of occupation, busy work growing naturally out of the usual primary studies is introduced, either to illustrate a previous recitation or to prepare for the next lesson.

An advanced course in kindergarten proper is provided for those who wish to make it a specialty.

Practice Work.—Forty weeks. Students working in the Model School not only do forty-five minutes per day of teaching and observing, but attend conference with the training teacher and assistants at least two afternoons per week, for the purpose of studying the difficulties that arise in the every-day work of a school. All graduates are also required to take practice work in conducting calisthenic exercises, and in all matters pertaining to physical training.

The Model Department is thoroughly organized into an ideal graded school, beginning with the kindergarten and extending through the grammar grade. The rooms are under the supervision of experienced teachers, who, as assistants to the Director in Training, observe and criticize the work of pupil-teachers. They teach more or less during the entire year. This department is sustained for no other purpose than to furnish a place in which advanced pupils may, under the eye of friendly critics, become proficient in teaching. The higher grades serve as a good preparatory school for those who may fail to pass the entrance examinations, or who may contemplate entering the Normal Department. A complete course of study for this department has been published in pamphlet form, copies of which can be secured on application.

Rhetoricals.—Throughout the entire course, students meet weekly with their class teacher for rhetorical exercises. All of the exercises presented by the students are submitted to the teacher for approval and rehearsal before delivery in class or in society. First-year students are required to present four declamations each for the year; second- and third-year students, four essays each per year; fourth-year students, two orations each. Part of the time in the declamation classes is taken up with a special study of appropriate selections. The second-year classes devote half of the first term to criticism and special study, and half of the second term to practice in parliamentary law, with Robert's manual as authority. The oration classes take special drill for twenty weeks in the art of expression, and ten weeks in lectures and criticism. Ten lectures on elementary logic are given the class in oration during the last term. In all this work, a high standard of excellence is required for passing.

Gymnastics.—Gymnastics and calisthenics constitute a part of the regular course of instruction. These exercises occupy about fifteen minutes daily. Each class is under the leadership of a chief. Free gymnastics, bells, rings, wands, and clubs are employed in the various classes. Especial care is given to correct position, and to precision and promptness of action, in connection with good music.

Classes in special work meet two afternoons per week; these classes are open to students whose physical condition warrants vigorous exercise. The members are required to wear the conventional gymnasium suit.

Physical training has been made a department in the School and the work placed in charge of an expert teacher, who devotes her entire time to it.

Lectures on physical culture and related subjects are given the senior classes once per week and are required for graduation.

The utility of gymnastic and calisthenic exercises as a means of physical development and training, and of securing vigorous health under the constant strain of student life, is now generally acknowledged.

The Delsarte work in the elocution classes is excellent physical drill, and pupils filing requisite records in the physical training department are excused from the daily exercises in the gymnasium.

Athletics.—Every facility is offered for outdoor exercise, under the general supervision of the Director in Training and the special supervision of members of the Faculty who may be personally interested. The work is recognized as elective with gymnastics and calisthenics, under certain limitations, particularly the military drill, which is systematically conducted during the entire year.

Department of Music.

This department offers superior advantages to those interested in the study of music. The courses provide instruction in everything that forms an essential part of a musical education—technical and theoretical, as well as vocal and instrumental.

The expense is merely nominal when compared with other schools offering equal advantages. The tuition is anywhere from one to three times less, and the senior year is entirely free. Excellent board can be obtained at low rates, and rooms in pleasant homes are reasonable.

Special features are: A juvenile course, a preparatory course, an advanced course, a normal course, musical history and biography, musical form and analysis, ensemble classes, mandolin orchestra.

Free advantages are: Pupils' recitals, lessons in musical history, lessons in biography, classes in sight-reading, time keeping, ear training, ensemble classes, library privileges, chorus, orchestra.

Pianoforte—Juvenile Course.—This is a course for fundamental training, and has been planned with special reference to children from six to twelve years of age. The work is simple, interesting, and varied, while such is its thoroughness that the children who have worked through it have already begun to be musicians. On completion of this, they enter the regular preparatory course. The children's work is in charge of Miss E. Anna Stone, under the direct supervision of the head of the department.

Preparatory or Beginners' Course.—This course embraces the work of the first two grades, and is provided for those who have had little or no previous study.

Advanced Course.—On entering this course pupils may study with a view to public performance or training for teachers, the instruction being varied according to individual needs or desires. No definite time can be fixed for the completion of any course, as some will advance more rapidly than others; progress depending upon the pupil's natural ability and time devoted to practice.

Normal Course in Public-school Music.—This course is arranged to meet a growing demand for the preparation of persons qualified to teach and supervise music in public schools. A thorough study and analysis is made of the foremost systems used, with practical drill in class teaching and management.

Voice Culture.—Each voice is treated with special reference to the individual needs in tone production, quality, and the necessary and proper breath support. Such exercises, studies, and songs are used as will make the voice flexible, strong, and extended, after which phrasing and expression will be developed and the pupil familiarized with different styles, thus preparing the voice for parlor, church, or concert singing.

Violin.—The instruction in violin will be so adapted that it will meet the individual requirements of the pupils. Tone, technique and style are made important factors, and every means used to make the pupil a good, intelligent performer and musician.

Mandolin, Guitar.—The course of study, besides containing such exercises as are needed to develop the technique, includes pleasing solos of various grades.

Harmony.—One year's work in harmony is required for the course in voice and violin. In addition to the year's work in harmony, a year's work in counterpoint and composition is required of all candidates for graduation in piano.

Musical History and Biography.—Musical history begins with the music of the ancient oriental nations and notes its progress and development through the middle ages and up to the present. Special attention is given to history of pianoforte and instrumental music since 1700, giving a clear exposition of the different epochs, and of the lives and works of the great composers.

Musical Form.—This course treats of rhythm, accent, thematic treatment, etc., with analysis of the various musical forms.

Recitals and Concerts.—In order that the students may have an opportunity to increase their knowledge of music and musical literature, and to afford them assistance in acquiring confidence and self-control, frequent recitals and special concerts are given. The great benefit derived from attending and participating in such concerts and recitals, in presence of large audiences, cannot be overestimated. Albert Taylor Hall, with a seating capacity of more than one thousand, gives inestimable advantages for such concerts.

Pupils completing the full course in piano, voice, or violin will receive a certificate of graduation.

Sight-singing and Chorus.—The sight-singing and chorus classes are under the direction of Professor Boyle, who has had extended experience in choir, chorus, and Chautauqua music, and is thus enabled to make the work very practical and profitable.

The importance of acquiring the ability to read music at sight cannot be too strongly urged upon those who desire to lay the proper foundation for a musical education.

Euridice Club.—The Euridice Club is composed of young women of the institution who meet regularly for the practice of part songs and choruses.

Orpheus Club.—The Orpheus Club is composed of young men, who also meet regularly each week to study glees and standard works for male voices.

These clubs are open to all students who have attained a requisite degree of proficiency. Their frequent appearance in concert, both separately and in combined chorus work, affords ample opportunity for the acquirement of skill in the rendition of vocal music.

Tuition fees, for a term of ten weeks, two lessons a week, are:

For further information, send for music catalogue to CHARLES A. BOYLE, Director.

Course in Modern Languages.

Although a course in modern languages has not yet been provided as an integral part of the curriculum, successful classes are organized each year under an excellent teacher in German and French.

These courses consist of three years' work in German and two years' work in French. The full work in either course may be substituted for Latin in the Latin course. The diploma offered is the English, with German or French.

No fee is charged for these classes except to irregular and special students, as heretofore explained.

German.—The aim of this course is twofold: First, to fit the student for teaching German in the high school; second, to give him practical mastery of the language for conversational use. For the latter purpose, a German club has been organized which meets once a week, and which each student in German is expected to enter.

Students having finished their work satisfactorily can enter the Kansas University without examination in this branch.

First Term.—Elementary Grammar (Otis). Declension of adjectives and nouns; conjugation of verbs, both regular and irregular; order of sentences; translation of simple sentences, oral and written, of German into English and English into German; thorough mastery of German letters and pronunciation.

Second Term.—Advanced Grammar. Reader (Brandt), with careful attention to points of grammar and syntax; sight-reading; exercises in composition and dictation.

Third Term.—Wilhelm Tell, Das Lied von der Glocke. Review of grammar, based on Whitney, Brandt, and others; attention to etymology and idioms.

Fourth Term.—Three selections from the following: Karl der Grosse, Burg Neideck, Die Journalisten, Hermann und Dorothea, Die Jungfrau von Orleans, Immensee.

Fifth Term.—Three of the following: Egmont, Iphigenie auf Tauris, Minna von Barnhelm, Emilia Galotti, Wallenstein, Geschichte des dreissigjährigen Krieges, Friedrich der Grosse.

Sixth Term.—Nathan der Weise, Faust, Soll und Haben.

A postgraduate course is also offered.

French.—First Term. Elementary Grammar (Whitney). Inflections of nouns and adjectives; pronominal adjectives; partitive construction; conjugation of regular and some irregular verbs; easy translations of French into English and English into French, oral and written; ability to pronounce and spell French correctly.

Second Term.—Advanced Grammar. Reader (Whitney); essentials of French syntax and idiomatic phrases; rapid reading of French prose for vocabulary, by Daudet, Michelet, Lamartine, Merimee, Telemaque.

Third Term.—Plays of Corneille, Racine, Moliere, and others.

Fourth Term.—Fables of La Fontaine, Florian; chapters from novels by George Sand, Victor Hugo, Balzac, and others.

A postgraduate course is also offered.
